ROOSEVELT'S STAND
REGARDING BANQUETCORRESPONDENCE WITH BLOOMER
EXPLAINS ATTITUDE ON PEACE BANQUET.

STATES HIS POSITION

Was Not in Favor of Any Attempt to Over-Awe Senate But General
Peace Movement.

New York, Dec. 30.—Why Theodore Roosevelt will not attend the banquet tonight of the citizens' peace committee with President Taft as guest of honor was made public in detail today in correspondence between Mr. Roosevelt and William J. Hooper, executive secretary of the committee.

There are several letters from the former president in the correspondence the principal one of which was written Dec. 5 and is in line with Mr. Roosevelt's editorial in the current number of the Outlook.

"I cannot permit the use of my name for this citizens' peace banquet," the letter reads, "Simply because I do not know what that banquet is for."

States His Position.
"If it is meant to overawe the Senate and force that body against its conscience to support the unimpaired treaty which the Senate committee on foreign relations has shown by unanswerable arguments to be hostile to the honor and interests of the American people, then I am not in sympathy with you."

"If you intend to support those treaties, however, with the amendments introduced by Senators Root and Lodge, then you are all right because you are supporting what is not a very important but still sincere effort to make things a little better."

Mr. Roosevelt then reiterated what he said yesterday in his editorial that "hypocrisy never pays" and detailed his views with the unimpaired treaty should not be supported.

Regarding Arbitration.
Among the subjects which Mr. Roosevelt said he believed should not be arbitrated was the Monroe doctrine, state bounties, the right of the American to abrogate the Russian treaty of 1832 and the question of allowing unlimited Asiatic immigration to the United States. Mr. Roosevelt's letter then continued:

"Now if you do not believe that the questions I have named should be arbitrated then you occupy an improper, and from the national standpoint, a dishonorable position, if you desire to see these treaties ratified without amendment."

Mr. Bloomer replied to this letter Dec. 13, stating that the form of invitation to the banquet had been changed so as not to include the ratification of the proposed treaty adding the banquet in his opinion should be a demonstration for a broad honest peace movement.

Favors Broad Movement.
To this Col. Roosevelt replied under date of Dec. 16, in part as follows:

"As you state and understand the movement I am entirely in sympathy with it, that is, I am in favor of a broad honest peace movement, in line with the traditional policy of this country of good will and fair treatment for all the nations of mankind."

"In replying to another letter of Mr. Bloomer written in answer to the above Col. Roosevelt said:

"Unfortunately it is not possible for me to accept any invitation of any kind or, otherwise I would surely accept this."

Manchester, Eng., Dec. 30.—The decision of the cotton spinners' federation to place their operatives on half time went into effect at most of the spinning mills in the county of Lancashire today. The number of unemployed in the cotton trade has increased to two hundred and fifty thousand, comprising both spinners and weavers. The operatives are determined to maintain their fight with the employers which began from the Helms mill at Ayrington. This conflict will continue as long as the funds of the operatives' trade union last and it is estimated that this will be about three or four weeks.HALIFAX HOTEL IS

Fire in Nova Scotia City.

Halifax, Nova Scotia, Dec. 30.—Fire starting from a defective line in the King Edward hotel here last night, destroyed that structure, which was a five story wooden building. The well known of the St. Croix Paper Company and four tenement houses were also destroyed. The total loss is estimated at $200,000. The one hundred and fifty guests in the King Edward hotel were gotten out without bodily harm, although many of them sustained losses of personal belongings. For a while it seemed as though the entire city would be destroyed as a high gale carried embers a great distance. Two hundred sailors from the Canadian cruiser "Nobis" and a detail of troops from the garrison assisted the combined fire department of Halifax and Dartmouth in fighting the flames.

NATIONAL CIRCUIT
COURTS ABOLISHEDSeventy-Seven Passed Out of Existence Today—Judges to Be Transferred to District And Appeal Courts.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 30.—The United States circuit courts, which have constituted an important part of the Federal judiciary system for nearly a century, passed, ceased their existence today. The passing of these courts, seventy-seven in number, and covering the entire country, is one of the reforms provided for in the new judiciary code, enacted by Congress on March 3 last, to become effective January 1, 1912. The existence of the circuit courts since 1891, when the circuit courts of appeal were created, has been regarded as superfluous and expensive. The circuit judges do not lose their positions by the change, as they will continue to sit in the circuit courts of appeal and help in the district courts.

The board concluded to bring before the convention the matter of adopting a compensation insurance plan like the state workman's compensation act and of making an effort to get the legislature to pass the bill for sundary wall papering which would require the removal of old paper from the walls before new is applied as a preventative of the spread of germs which may be lodged behind it.

DIRECTORS OF ALLIS-
CHALMERS COMPANY
HOLD UP INTERESTRefusal to Pay Interest on First Mortgage Bonds May Throw
Concern Into Receiver's Hands.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

New York, Dec. 30.—Announcement that the Allis-Chalmers directors have decided not to pay the interest on its first mortgage bonds, due Jan. 1, 1912, thereby throwing the company into a receivership, came as a surprise to the financial district which had received no word from the corporation's difficulty until it was added over. The amount of first mortgage bonds outstanding of the company is $11,118,000, with $10,150,000 of preferred stock and $19,020,000 common. There are two protective committees in the field, one representing the bond holders and the other the preferred stock. James N. Wallace, president of the Central Trust Company, is chairman of the bond holders committee.

No action looking into receivership can be taken until default has actually occurred. The bond holders will hold a meeting today to plan a course of action. It is understood that the company's assets are far in excess of its bonded debt, and that from five million to six million dollars as working capital would help the company out of its present embarrassment.

May Re-Organize Company.
Milwaukee, Dec. 30.—President D. W. Call of the Allis-Chalmers Company, has not returned from New York City. Officials of the company here on the ground, say that the pending proceedings in New York do not contemplate a receivership. On the other hand, it is expected that the negotiations between the holders of bonds and stocks will result in an entirely friendly reorganization of the company. There is nothing in the existing financial condition of the company to force a receivership, it is said, and it is altogether probable that a receivership can be avoided unless possibly as the result of a final disagreement among the several interests.ENGLISH MARQUIS TO

BANQUET AND DANCE FOR TRAVELING MEN

United Commercial Travelers And Wives and Friends Enjoy Annual Event at East Side I. O. O. F. Hall.

Rivalling in grandeur and simplicity the sumptuous holiday spreads of the old-fashioned days of grandfather's time, the annual banquet of the Janesville Council No. 108 United Commercial Travelers given at east side Odd Fellows' hall last evening, was original and unique in every detail as compared with the usual banquet spread.

Covers were laid for 135 members and guests and the banquet hall was decorated in accordance with the best form of the pioneer days. Credit for the arrangement of the entire affair belongs to Mr. and Mrs. George H. Williamson and Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Seidmore.

Red table cloths of various patterns covered the tables and tallow candles with potatoes for holders furnished the illumination for the banqueters. Oak boughs, cornstalks, and pumpkins were arranged about the hall and in a conspicuous corner stood an inviting barrel of cider whose good cheer flowed for all who cared to partake.

Messrs. Williamson and Seidmore dressed as St. and Hannu drew in a cart carrying the roast pig, and uncovered the large menu cards hung at each end of the hall. The following array of tasty and old-fashioned viands were served:

MRS. ABBY TRUMAN, PIONEER RESIDENT

Was One of Earliest Residents of Town of Lima, Beloved and Respected by All Who Knew Her.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Lima, Dec. 30.—Abby Sturges Smith was born in the town of Sandwich, Mass., Nov. 3, 1831. The family moved to Lima in October 1847, and with the exception of the past ten years, her home was in Lima. On January 1, 1850, she was married to Alonzo Truman, who came to Wisconsin in 1848.

In a sketch of her life recently prepared under her direction, "she preceded her to the heavenly mansion in the year 1882." One daughter, Lydia Ann, was born to Mr. and Mrs. Truman, and she died in 1880.

Mrs. Truman was of the pioneer type, self-reliant and plucky and cheerful under all circumstances. In times of long sickness in her family she provided for them with her own hands and supported her father and mother until their death at the advanced ages of eighty-five and ninety-three years.

She loved her husband's family as her own, and was a favorite with the nieces and nephews, being familiarly known as "Aunt Abby."

She was a woman of strong faith and loyal to her convictions. Over thirty years ago, with her husband and daughter, she united with the S. D. B. church at Milton, where Rev. E. M. Dunn was at that time its pastor.

When failing health came, about twelve years ago, she went to live with her niece, Mrs. Medora Reed, and at whose home she died on Dec. 22, 1911, at Shenandoah, Wis.

The song, "Shall We Gather at the River," was sung at her funeral on Sunday, Dec. 24, as it was at the funeral of her daughter and of her husband.

The funeral was conducted by Rev. Lester C. Randolph, present pastor of the Milton S. D. B. church, who took as a text, Lev. 19:32. Besides Mr. and Mrs. Reed other out of town people who came to attend the funeral were Mrs. Stella Downs and Mrs. Eliza Warren, of Janesville and Mrs. Lucy Weaver of Milton, cousins of the deceased; Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Jones; Mr. and Mrs. Tom Collins and Messrs. Blah, Elphick and Hall of Whitewater.

E. S. BABCOCK DIES FOLLOWING OPERATION

Prominent Resident of Milton Passed Away in St. Anne's Hospital in Chicago Yesterday Noon.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Milton Junction, Dec. 30.—A telegram received yesterday noon brought the sad intelligence of the death of E. Stillman Babcock at St. Anne's hospital, Chicago, where he underwent an operation early in the week.

Until a day or two prior to his death he seemed to be making toward recovery, but he was attacked by pneumonia, and in his weakened condition, due to the operation, was unable to resist the ravages of the dread disease.

His death is a great shock to every one, despite the fact that previous telegrams had indicated his critical condition.

For more than half a century he had been a resident of this village and was a citizen whom the community honored and respected as highly as anyone who ever made this place their home. Always ready to lend a helping hand in the sickness or death of a neighbor he was physically unfit for the task. An ideal citizen in the community, church and society, his death leaves a void in village circles that no one can fill and his memory will be revered by Milton people to the end of time.

The deceased leaves a wife, two sons, E. A. and D. A. of this place, and two daughters, Miss Lillian V. of Barab Creek, Mich., and Mrs. Alma Bennett, of Lima and to this bereaved family is extended the heartfelt sympathy of each and every one of their friends and acquaintances. The funeral was held this afternoon from the S. D. B. church of which the deceased was a member. His pastor, Rev. Dr. Randolph, officiated. Dr. Luc Lodge, I. O. O. F., of which Brother Babcock was past grand and very active member, attended in a body and took charge of the service at the grave.

DESTRUCTIVE WEB WORM

Insect Will Quickly Destroy Tree and Should Be Burned as Soon as They Appear.

In the fall the ugly web of this insect are seen all over the land. The adult, a little white moth, lays its eggs on the leaves of fruit and other trees and plants early in summer.

The young caterpillars spin the protective web. They are of a pale yellow, with long hairs, two black rows down the body, and a black head.

These worms will quickly destroy a tree and should be burned as soon as they appear, because after they have eaten the leaves they drop to the ground and spin a little cocoon within which they hide themselves and then change back to the chrysalis state.

There are two broods of this insect in the south every year and one in the north.

Spraying with Paris green when the worms are very young will destroy them. London purple is also used with success. When they are discovered in large numbers the limbs containing the worms should be cut off and carried out of the orchard and burned.

The caterpillars will first eat all the leaves within the web, then those nearest by, often defoliating the entire tree. The worm is noticeably set with tufts of bristle-like projections.

This insect is sometimes confused with the tent caterpillar which appears in the spring and builds its web in the forks of the limbs.

Good Old Joke.

Perhaps it is time to print again the London fog story which once won a prize offered by a London paper: "A merchant received a telephone message one morning from one of his clerks, 'Hello, Mr. Smith,' said the clerk over the wire, 'I cannot come down to the shop this morning on account of the fog. I have not yet arrived home yesterday!'"

Much Worse Things.

To be poor is not always pleasant, but worse things than that happen at sea. Small shoes are not to pinch, but not if you have a small foot; if we have little means it will be well to have little desires. Poverty is no shame, but being discontented with it. It is not how much we have, but how much we enjoy, that makes happiness.—Spurgeon.

VICTORY FOR THE UNITED DOCTORS

WOMAN TRIES SIX DOCTORS IN NINE YEARS WITHOUT OBTAINING A CURE OR RELIEF.

UNITED DOCTORS CURE HER

Grand Free Offer of United Doctors Expires January 5th.

Every time a testimonial is given to the United Doctors who have their permanent Janesville Institute in the Hayes Bldg., corner of Milwaukee and Main Sts., it is a personal victory to them for it shows their efforts and skill is not in vain. Hundreds and hundreds of sick and afflicted are on their records as cured or benefited who before they came to them had treated with other doctors and old methods of treatment for years without getting help.

The following statement made for publication by a cured patient of the United Doctors illustrates this fact. The statement is made by Mrs. K. Quandt, 111 So. Third St., Streator, Ill., a patient of the United Doctors:

To the public: "After suffering nine years from stomach and bowel trouble and having a miserable life from headaches and backaches I tried the United Doctors' treatment, though with very little hope of getting better as I had tried four doctors and two lady doctors without aid. I must say truthfully that after one month of the United Doctors' treatment I am feeling fine and enjoy my meals, and am a different person."

The above statement told simply, still tells a great fact. She is better. How many sick and afflicted people would like to be able to say the same. Many who have tried all other methods of medicines should consult the United Doctors and learn what their wonderful "United" system can do for them in their case.

The grand offer of free examination, free consultation and free treatment (except for drug cost of medicine used) expires January 5th. Any patient accepted for treatment before this time will not only be treated free for this time only—but until well regardless of the length of time. After that regular fees will be charged to new patients.

All medicines are prepared specially for the individual requirements of each patient in the United Doctors' laboratory maintained at the Institute. The Janesville Institute is in the Hayes Bldg., corner of Milwaukee and Main streets.

MANY NEW DIPLOMATS TO ATTEND ANNUAL RECEPTION

Many Changes Have Taken Place in Personnel Since President Gave Last New Year's Party.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 30.—The program for the customary observance of New Year's Day by the President and the official circles of the Capital in general indicates that traditions will be closely adhered to next Monday, when the new year will be officially ushered in. The President and Mrs. Taft will hold their reception in the forenoon, beginning with the reception of the members of the Cabinet. These will be followed by the members of the Diplomatic corps. As there have been numerous important changes in the Diplomatic corps since the last new year's day reception, the number of new faces at Monday's reception will be one of the notable features of the day.

After the diplomatic reception will follow receptions of the members of the Justices of the Supreme Court, the District Judiciary, Congress, Army and Navy and various district officials. Many members of the Cabinet will keep open house.

LOCAL OPTION ELECTIONS HELD IN ONTARIO MONDAY

More Than One Half of Municipalities in Province Are Already Dry—Contests in Over Seventy Cities.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Toronto, Ont., Dec. 30.—With more than one-half of the municipalities of Ontario already "dry" the prohibition forces are hopeful of a considerable increase to the list as the result of the elections to be held next Monday. Of the 244 municipalities whose local option campaigns were possible this year contests have been brought in about one-third. Port Arthur, Port William and Chatham are the most important places in which a vote will be taken on the license question.

MANITOWOC FIRE LOSS IS BELOW THE THOUSAND MARK

Thought to Establish Low Record For City of Its Size in Wisconsin—Forty Alarms Responded To

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Manitowoc, Dec. 30.—With but one more day of 1911, fire chief J. H. Kratz, has completed his annual report on fire losses of the year for Manitowoc with the lowest of all reports shows a total loss of less than $1,000 in exact figures $800.25, which is believed to establish a record for a city of this size in Wisconsin. Though the department responded to 40 alarms and property valued at $171,000 was endangered only two fires resulted in a loss of $300 or more.

LAKOTAS DEFEATED
NEW ORLEANS TEAM

Local Basket Ball Team Ran Away From Kewatin Academy Five at Rink Last Night.

Last week's defeat at the hands of Havenwood did not seem to dampen the spirits of the Lakota Cardinals in the least and they walked away from the Kewatin Academy team from New Orleans last evening to the tune of 44 to 4. The visitors proved no match for the machine like team work, accurate basket throwing and close guarding of the Cardinals. Everyone was into the game all the time and the local aggregation not only handled the ball to perfection at their pleasure but they did not allow the visitors to get their hands on the ball for more than a minute at a time.

Although the Cardinals made the first basket the Kewatin bunch came along with one shortly afterward and then they held the Lakotians to a pretty even game for a few minutes. This did not last long however and soon the baskets began to roll in for local five until the second half ended the score 28 to 2 in favor of the Cardinals.

Cunningham made seven of his nine baskets during this half while Jones and Hemming came in close behind with three and four respectively. A. A. U. rules were used during the second half for the benefit of the visitors who claimed that their unfairness with intercollegiate rules being the cause of their poor work. Despite the fact they gained but two more points to the eighteen of the Jansville boys. Team work was the most important part of this half for the locals who secured some excellent practice and did not make any strong effort to throw baskets. Greene and Langdon made good showing in the second half with their passing and guarding while Hemming scored ten points for the Lakotians.

Last night's scores and line ups were as follows:
JANSVILLE: Pos. KIWATIN Jones.....f..... Snyder Cunningham.....f..... Thomas Hemming.....c..... Johnson Langdon.....f..... Woodard & Knobel

Green.....f..... Coffey Field goals: Cunningham, 2; Hemming, 2; Jones, 4; Langdon, 1; Snyder, 1; Coffey, 1.

Referee—Carle.
Next week however the Cardinals will need all the practice they receive last night as they are on the books for a game with the Chicago German Turners. Last year the Cardinals were able to take one game from them both games going by small margins.

AMERICAN MUSIC ISN'T BAD

David Blapham Says Much of It Compares Well With Best of Foreign Compositions.

At a recent recital which he gave in Carnegie hall, David Blapham said: "There is just as much bad music written abroad as there is in this country, only we do not always hear it. When we get foreign music we always seek the best. We buy the works of the best composers and we give no attention to any others. Here at home we hear all that is published. We cannot avoid the bad if we would. We hear it on the streets in spite of ourselves, and we grow to think, unless we take pains to study American music, that the most of it is poor. This is not true. Some of it is very bad, but much of it is as good as that written by the best foreign composers."

In proof of his faith in the good quality of American music Mr. Blapham makes it a rule to devote a portion of each of his programs to the work of American composers. While all of his audience may not agree with him that these songs equal the best of the foreign works, it certainly should be an inspiration to American composers to have so excellent an artist place such faith in them and prove his faith by giving their works the benefit of his renditions. Mr. Blapham laments the prevalence of ragtime, and urges his audiences to lend all their influence toward its abolishment. To him music is worthless unless taken with sufficient seriousness to express a lofty, or at least an intelligent, idea.

Mountain in the Sky.

Probably few persons are aware that somewhere, many miles away from this earth, an enormous mountain twenty miles high is flying through space. This mountain is known astronomically as the planet Eros.

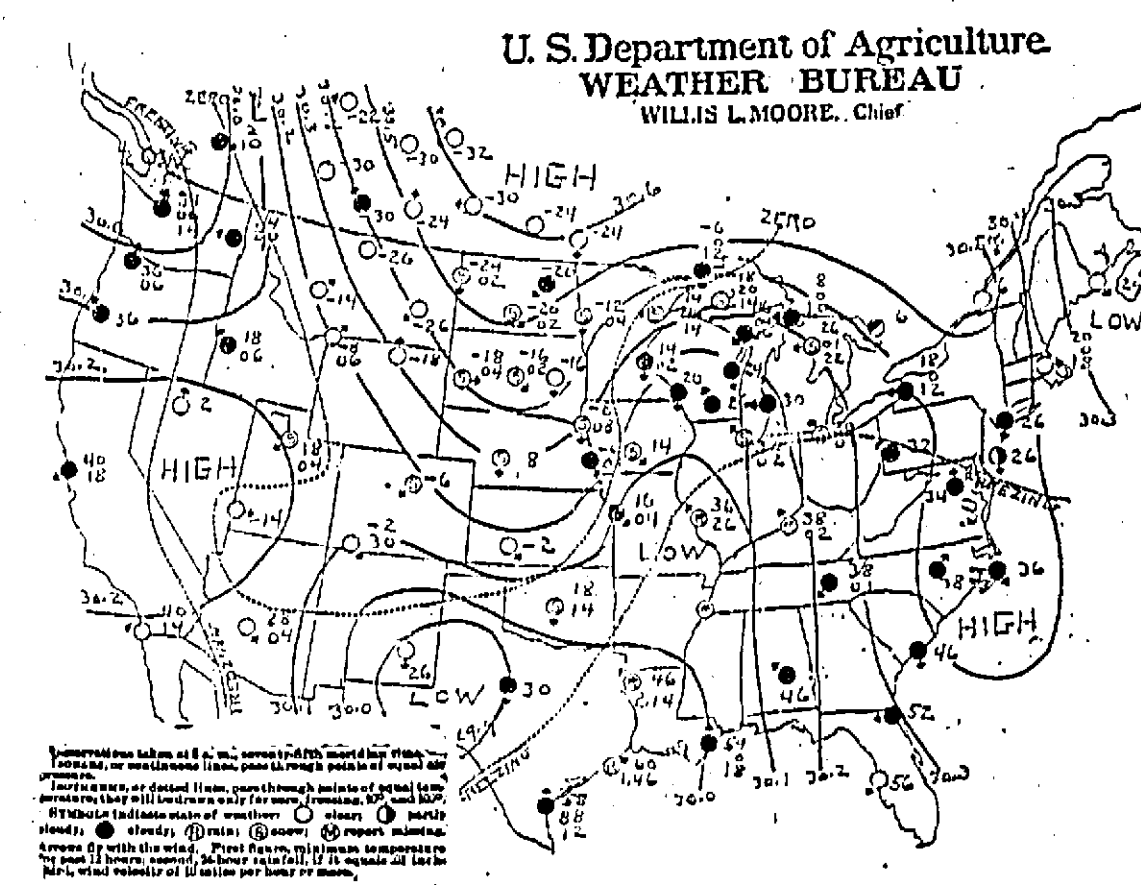

The ordinary man has long taken it for granted that all the planets are more or less round in shape. The small planet Eros, however, is an exception to this rule. According to the latest astronomical information it is a mere mountain in space, "without form and void," and as it turns upon its axis first one corner and then another is presented to view. These small worlds (few are over ten or twenty miles across) are not large enough to have sufficient gravity to draw their structure into symmetry and remain as when lunched into space—mainly meteorites. A tantalizing fact for astronomers is that Eros passed close to us about Jan. 24, 1894—before the planet was recognized—and that quite so near an approach is not due again till 1975.

His Own Idea.

Walter Wyman, surgeon general of the United States public health service, was at one time visited by the then principal representative of Tammany in congress. While waiting for some papers to be brought to his desk relative to the subject of the congressman's visit, the surgeon general sought to draw the visitor's attention to the importance and effectiveness of the public health work of the service by handing him a rather large bound volume containing public health reports for the year just ended. Upon the arrival of the expected papers, Dr. Wyman turned again to his visitor, naturally expecting some encouraging comment. To his surprise he found the representative of America's foremost commonwealth balancing the unopened volume upon his palm. Meeting the interrogative glance of the surgeon general, he solemnly remarked: "Great codd, general! If you dropped that on a man it would kill him, wouldn't it?"

Supreme Test.

We never know what kind of stuff there is in a man until the last boat comes up to the sinking ship and a fat woman is ahead of him on the ladder.

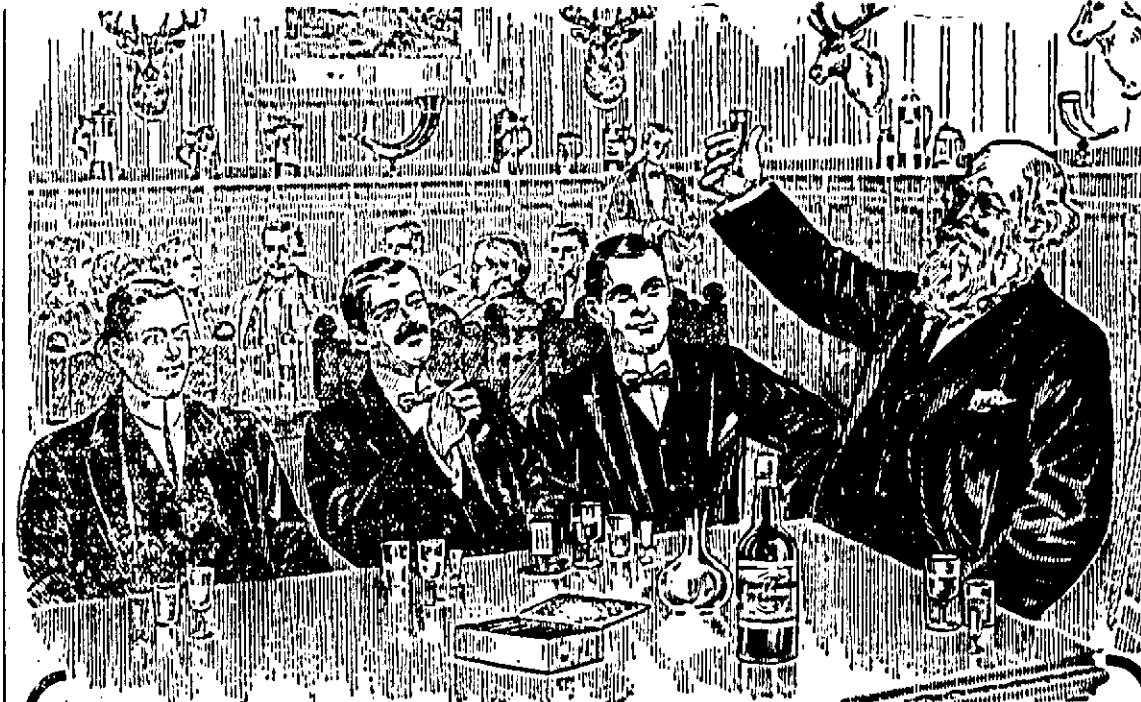

WEATHER CONDITIONS.

There has been very little outward motion of the atmospheric disturbance over the country in the past twenty-four hours. The area of high atmospheric pressure in the southwest, has lost strength, and cloudy weather, with rising temperature now prevails where it gave frosty conditions yesterday. The barometric depression in the Southwest has also lost in intensity. The V-shaped depression extending northward from it has moved from the Missouri to the Mississippi valley and is attended by cloudiness and snow or rain throughout the Central States.

The temperature has risen ten or twelve degrees throughout the region between Wisconsin and the Gulf of Mexico. The area of high atmospheric pressure over western Canada has retained nearly stationary, and with unabated cold. It has extended southward somewhat, and zero temperatures prevail this morning on the Plains and in the southern Plateau region, as far south as the southern boundary line of Kansas, Colorado and Utah. Heavy snow is to be expected in this vicinity tonight and Sunday.

years. What wouldn't I give to change places with him?"

"That's right John," said his companion, "I never ride through the country without seeing something to call back the old days, and that little red school house, off to the left, looks very much like the academy where you and I graduated, so long ago. How much a boy has missed out of life, who wasn't brought up on the farm."

"That's right, Jim," said his companion, and reviewing some of the most fascinating pages of early history, it often invades a more sacred precinct and a mother's hand rests upon his head while he repeats the familiar good night prayer.

The years which span the journey from childhood on to maturity and out into active life, form a series of volumes of greater or less importance, for they record the hopes and ambitions, which enter so largely into the formative period, and which frequently make or mar destiny.

Many young people drift through this important period and out into life content to pick up the first thing which offers by way of occupation, and usually satisfied to travel in the well-worn ruts of their ancestors.

But a larger class are troubled with day dreams and devote some time to air castle building, and both are incentives to ambition. The boy who thinks and plans for himself, seldom becomes a drifter, and the girl who studies the future with a view to making a place for herself, is usually rewarded.

The Wisconsin boy who took the first prize for the best crop of barley, not long ago, made an important entry in the volume of his life's history for 1911. Important to himself because it demonstrated to him the value of intelligent thought, and important to the state because of the possibilities unfolded.

The boys of the present generation are history-makers, not only on the farm but in all the avenues of life. Before the race is half run they have lived longer than their grandfathers.

The active life of the men and women of today makes an interesting record. It has to do with the comedies as well as the tragedies of every day experience, and frequently reads like a romance. The daily entry in the diary of life is largely influenced by surroundings, and as we are creatures of environment, the surroundings have much to do with the character of the record.

Someone has said that the reason why so many of us are honest is because we never had a chance to be anything else. Be that as it may, the fact remains that many of us pass through life without having our moral fibre severely tested.

The National Cash Register company of Dayton, Ohio, makes it a business to protect its employees against themselves by removing temptation from them. Not because the management lacks confidence in the honesty of young men employees, but because the weakness of human nature is recognized and appreciated. Plenty of men are serving time today who would never have fallen had they been properly safeguarded.

If the same token the divorced courts of the land are not supported by the happy homes, where husband and wife find a safe retreat, but by that other class of abodes unfortunately established where neither love nor companionship are possible. The test of virtue is largely a matter of environment.

The current of some lives runs so smooth that there is scarcely a ripple, while in others the stream is so full of whirlpools and rapids that constant care and skillful navigation is necessary to prevent wreckage and ruin.

The thought is worth remembering that while we are absorbed in making our own history it is possible for us, now and then, to cast a ray of sunlight across the page of some other life, and thus relieve the monotony, or lighten the burden of a fellow wayfarer.

The volume of the old year is closed and soon will be sealed for all time. We may not turn back to erase the errors, or correct the mistakes, but out of its experiences may come lessons for the copy yet to be edited and transferred, for we shall be writing tomorrow, just as we have today, and just as we shall continue to do until the story is finished.

On the fly leaf of 1912 suppose we write these two short resolutions:

"I will be good."
 "I will do good."

Both are easy to remember and not impossible to fulfill. A community of good people doing good would settle many perplexing problems in home and civic life, and when the volume closed the last word would be the simple statement: "Well done."

ON THE SPUR OF THE MOMENT

HITCHIN' HIM UP.

The marriage market is a hard one to understand. The short man always asks the tall girl for her hand. The man who's six feet in his socks will wed for good and all. Some maiden who is passing fair but only four feet tall.

The brilliant girl who takes the prize and outshines all the school, is more than apt to cast her fate in marriage with some fool. The learned man who knows his books and has a sober mind. Most likely weds the dullest young damsel he can find. The prettiest of all the girls will wed some cross-eyed gink. Who doesn't look as if he knew enough to even think. The homely girl most likely hooks the handsome millionaire. The frivolous maid weds a man who's loaded down with care.

The plonk girl is apt to draw some old night prowling skate. Who doesn't think that "three o'clock is anywhere near late. The pastor of the church may draw a social butterfly. Who thinks more of her new fall hat than nunsions up on high.

The more you try to solve the thing, the less you really know. Philosophers all gave it up some centuries ago. The mystery is fathomless, as much now as of yore. It's only human nature, pure and simple, nothing more.

CANDIDATES FOR THE BOOBY.

The young man who believes her when she says he is the only man she ever kissed.

The elderly party who dyes his mustache and hair and thinks he is feeling anybody.

The woman who thinks that she can make a pawn over and make any other woman believe it is new.

The gink who writes love letters to a married woman.

The person who thinks he can get ahead in his profession by crooking his elbow over the polished mahogany.

The young woman who must be urged to sing and then sings all night.

The bareheaded debut who expects somehow or other to get something in this world for nothing.

THE SILVER CORNET BAND.

When our town's silver cornet band comes marching down the street, all dressed in gold braid uniforms, it surely is a treat.

The folks line up along the walks and drink the music in.

The boys take Susie's "Stars and Stripes" and hit her up like sin.

And every woman who has got some kin that's in the band.

Points him out to her neighbors and she says, "My, ain't he grand!"

The boys all march along like kings and hold their heads upright.

They may be shy on music, but they sure look out of sight.

The sour notes pass unnoticed and no one cracks a snail.

Ben Hawkins on the slide trombone can be heard a mile.

The bass drum is the only other thing that you kin hear.

And there's no use o' fany other play-ers bein' near.

Someway you never notice that the harmony ain't there.

The folks don't seem to listen, but they only stand and stare.

The music is of doubtful sort, we must perforce agree.

But it's the finest LOOKIN' band that we most ever see.

A FEW PIPE THOUGHTS.

Opportunity knocks at your door not only once but many times; but you needn't think that Opportunity is going to be a locksmith, but a skeleton key, unlock your door, come up stairs and pull you out of bed, dress you, wash your face, carry you down stairs and put you in a 60 H. P. automobile just in order to start you on your way.

The money you have not got makes little difference in the world; providing, of course, your wife inherited plenty of it.

The happiest man we ever saw was an old soldier with a wooden leg who was seated with his grandson on the top row of the narrow board seats at a circus, either.

Let the other fellow do the worrying. Think good thoughts, never gossip about your neighbors, do the best you can financially, take plenty of exercise, mow your own lawn, get up at cock-crow, go to bed with the chickens and eat plenty of spinach, and "you will live to be 116 years of age, providing you don't get run over by an automobile, fall off a ten-story building, eat toadstools by mistake, monkey around a post-house or die a natural death.

THESE MUST MAKE ANANIAS JEALOUS.

"Oh, Daisy, I think your new hat is just a perfect dream. I never saw anything become you a well."

"So sorry I was out when you called the other day, Mrs. Jones."

"Yes, that suit cost me just $125, and there isn't a piece of goods like it in this town, believe me."

"I never have a particle of trouble with my car. It runs just like a sewing machine and never gets out of repair."

"We'd be just delighted to have you and your wife spend four or five weeks with us next summer at our cottage at Long Branch."

Patents to Inventors.

Morsell & Caldwell, successors to Benedict, Morsell & Caldwell, solicitors of patents, majestic building, Milwaukee, report patents issued to western inventors on December 26, 1911, as follows:

Davis, Comstock, Mich., governor for steam engines; Alfred A. Dennis, Grand Rapids, Mich., veneer-tapping machine; Calvin Dewey, Milwaukee, Wis., railway rail joint; James K. Diamond, Grand Rapids, Mich., belt incline machine; Fred A. Blackman, Manitowish, Wis., adjustment device for locomotive bearing boxes; Henry Ford, Detroit, Mich., motor vehicle; Morris Gilger, Green Bay, Wis., loop retainer; Nicholas P. Grewell, Iowa, Mich., self sheet and mattress retainer; Clarence L. Hoffman, Detroit, Mich., alarm for boats; Robert H. Howarth, Rothschild, Wis., stuffing box packing; William T. Jones, Detroit, Mich., lamp; George H. Maas, Milwaukee, Wis., seal lock; Charles E. Shadell, Milwaukee, Wis., motor and compressor.

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

"NO TIME."

"I would like to do several things if I had the time," said the young man, whom I replied:

"Your excuse is flimsy."

"What you lack is not time, but disposition and the determination to systematically employ your leisure."

"Think of Charles Lamb."

There's a man who wrote books that will live as long as English literature. Do you suppose he had plenty of time? He was employed as a clerk nearly all his life. He wrote his books in the hours after his work was done.

And William Herschel.

Herschel was a poor music teacher and played a church organ. Becoming interested in astronomy, he studied the books in bed mornings and evenings. He worked long and patiently to build his own telescope. Herschel discovered the planet Uranus, and that fixed his fame for all time.

And Horace Greeley.

Greeley put in nearly twice as many hours in his day as the average "printer's devil" of today. But he became the greatest editor of his time.

And Benjamin Franklin.

Suppose Franklin had spent his time in the tavern with boon fellows instead of working at his experiments. The application of electricity might have been delayed perhaps fifty years. President Andrew Johnson got all his education after he was married and while working at the tailor's trade.

Vice President Wilson laid the foundation for his speeches by working his brain while he worked his hands at the cobble's bench.

Lincoln studied law between times. Clay learned to speak in a barn.

No time?

The most successful lawyer I know studied Blackstone and Kent after his day's work at the carpenter's bench. Thousands of young men and women today are taking mail courses in a correspondence school while pursuing their regular labors.

No time?

Young man, you spend enough time separate from your regular employment—and some of it foolishly spent—to make you cultured or rich or famous.

Maple Sugar.

In a land that the first sugar ever made in Vermont was made in Bennington in March, 1763, near the log cabin of Captain Samuel Robinson, the first settler of the town, who came from Hardwick, Mass. The sap was caught in short logs hollowed that held about a gallon. Many pounds of sugar were made and a liquid cane full of drip.

SCRIPTURE

Isaiah 42:10-16

Sing unto the Lord a new song, and his praise from the end of the earth, ye that go down to the sea, and all that is therein; the fides, and the inhabitants thereof.

Let the wilderness and the cities thereof lift up their voice, let the inhabitants of the rock sing, let them shout from the top of the mountains.

Let them give glory unto the Lord, and declare his praises in the islands.

The Lord shall go forth as a mighty man, he shall stir up jealousy like a man of war; he shall cry, yea, roar; he shall prevail against his enemies.

I have long time hidden my peace; I have been still, and refrained myself; now will I cry like a travelling woman; I will destroy and devour at once.

I will make waste mountains and hills, and dry up all their herbs; and I will make the rivers islands and I will dry up the pools.

And I will bring the blind by a way that they knew not; I will lead them in paths that they have not known; I will make darkness light before them, and crooked things straight. These things will I do unto them, and not forsake them.

We Live Too Fast for Diaries.

"When the inner history of the crisis is told by the private diaries of today," remarks the "Observer," in reference to the rather amusing political situation of the moment, "Well, we stop there with the query: Is there a private diary? Is there a man in this hurried age who goes home and sits down, tired with action, faces the splendid industry of the diary, and makes it up?"—London Chronicle.

Peculiar Place for Cash.

An astounding incident happened at Portland, Eng., lately, when the chief of a big club cut into a sheep's carcass and £130 in currency coins fell to the floor. A telephone call to the market from which the mutton had been received revealed the fact that a clerk had placed the money inside the carcass for safe keeping after banking hours.

Water in the Desert.

Yapp, the English naturalist, who has explored the mountain ranges of the Malay peninsula, reports the fact, not generally known, that in several species of bamboo the hollow internodes—the parts of the stems between the joints—are stored with large quantities of naturally filtered water. The knowledge of this fact might be of great service in an emergency.

Are You One of These 2254?

A history of this company's activities during the past twelve years would not be out of place at this time. From a telephone exchange of 380 phones at the beginning there are now in use 2254 telephones and the growth of the business has been the greatest during the past year of any in the history of the company.

It is little short of wonderful when one stops to figure the telephone conditions in this community twelve years ago the strides which the Rock County Telephone Company have taken forward during that period.

1812 miles of aerial wire connect these 2254 phones, almost enough to reach to San Francisco.

Eleven years ago there were only some 300 phones in Janesville, notwithstanding the Bell Telephone Co. had been operating here nearly 20 years.

There are 6200 feet of under ground cables carrying the wires to the distributing centers away from the main streets of the city and this company was the pioneer so far as Janesville is concerned in taking its wires from the poles which had been too numerous in the main streets of the city.

Thirty-five people are employed carrying on the business of the company, of which 28 are young ladies.

350 miles of toll wire reaching every town and city in Rock and Green County, as well as a greater number of cities and towns in Walworth, Racine and Jefferson Counties, are owned by this company.

The citizens of Janesville and this section of Southern Wisconsin appreciate the fact that the increase in the number of telephones in use, the greater territory covered and the reduction of telephone rate both for local and toll business is due to the activity of the Rock County Telephone Company. The great number of subscribers is the best evidence of this fact.

We take this occasion to wish our many friends and patrons a Happy New Year.

MARRIAGE LICENSE RECORD IS BROKEN; BIG GAIN IS SHOWN

Deloit Couple Are Issued Three Hundred and Eighty-First Permit This Afternoon

This was the last day in 1911 upon which marriage licenses could be issued and the total number today at three o'clock was three hundred and eighty-one, breaking the record for the past seven years.

The last license was issued to Clayton E. Peterson and Bertha Ungerer, both of Deloit, who obtained a special permit from Judge Sale and were married at half past two o'clock this afternoon by Justice Charles H. Lange at his office in the Hayes block.

The number of marriage licenses issued this year better the record and that of 1909 by fifty-seven the figure for 1910 being 345 and for 1909, 288. This makes the income from the license fees this year $190.50, nearly $200.

During the early part of December, the total number of marriage licenses issued had totalled 357 and eight more needed to make the average for your one each day. Since Dec. 4th, twenty-four marriage licenses were issued which is exactly three times the number needed to attain the desired average. Added to this is the fact that this has been a poor December for marriage licenses, as the total number for the month has been below the average.

The average for each month has been nearly thirty-two licenses so it can be easily seen that December was slightly behind.

The three hundred and seventy-ninth license was issued today to John L. Thurman and Ethel M. Brown both of Evansville; and the three hundred and eightieth was issued to Austin M. Saunders and Sylvia J. Hong, both of Harmony. It was expected that there would be another license issued this afternoon making the total 182.

FIRE DAMAGES HOME OF JOE GRENEWALT

Timely Discovery of Blaze Prevents Destruction of Residence—Dog Suffocated by the Fire

Orderville, Dec. 30.—When Mr. Joe Grenewalt came home from downtown on Thursday evening, the house was filled with smoke. The fire department was notified and was not slow in putting the fire out. The fire had started in the floor near a couch letting it fall into the basement. The rug was burned and flames were slowly creeping up between the walls. No one but the favorite dog "Lottie" was in the house at the time of the fire and had suffocated in the smoke. Mrs. Grenewalt was in Hanover visiting her sister Mrs. Chas. Horkenhagen.

Mrs. V. Cleveland Dead.
Mrs. V. Cleveland died at her home at 11 o'clock Thursday evening. Mrs. Cleveland has been in poor health for many years, but able to attend to her household duties until about two weeks ago, when she was taken suddenly ill. A husband and two children, Mrs. Geo. Smyth of this place, and Mr. Will Cleveland of Evansville, are left to mourn the loss of a wife and mother.

Miss Luella Hanson of Deloit, is here the guest of Miss Rosale Rime and other friends.

The Oberholt Stock Co., is in town. A large audience was present the first evening and was well pleased with the music given by the Ladies' band and orchestra.

Mrs. Ovestrand and Miss Mary and Bernice were Janesville visitors on Thursday.

Mr. Merwin Beck left Thursday for Chicago, for a few days visit.

To those who intend to send them to friends through the mail it is well to know that it will cost two or three cents postage, owing to the number of extra pages published. Last year over a hundred copies were put in the local postoffice without sufficient postage and never reached their destination. CLOSES A BIG DEAL IN WESTERN LANDS

Charles H. Cannon, Former Resident, Disposes of California Property For Large Sum.

In a letter received from James McLean, former alderman of the Fifth Ward, and now a resident of Los Angeles, news of one of the largest real estate deals at San Dimas, California, in which another former Janesville resident played an important part, is told. Charles H. Cannon, son of the late William Cannon, at one time owner of the Wooden Mills here and who also owned the old Cannon Hall property at the corner of Jackson and Milwaukee streets, has just disposed of six hundred and seventy-five acres near San Dimas, California, for $125,000. Mr. Cannon went to California with his parents some twenty years ago and his recent land deal is considered one of the largest that has been transacted for many years. The land sold comprised what was known as the Cannon Ranch, lying adjacent to San Dimas and will be cut up and subdivided into city lots. Mr. Cannon is also reported to have several other large real estate deals under negotiation.

TWO ROBINS WERE SEEN TODAY. APPARENTLY ENJOYING LIFE.

Edward Manz Discovers Strangers on Tree Near The South Wisconsin Gravel Pit.

There are evidently two robins who enjoy staying in the vicinity of Janesville during the winter months. Edward Manz this morning saw them sitting on a tree near the Southern Wisconsin Sand Gravel Company's pit and said they were twittering away on the branch of a tree untroubled by the snow or cold weather. Other robins have been reported in different parts of the city so perhaps Janesville is in the robins' belt after all.

FAREWELL RECITAL GIVEN BY MRS. PARK

Dramatic Contralto Singer Who Has Been at Congregational Church During Year, Gives Delightful Program.

Janesville has not seen an appreciative audience for some time as gathered at the Congregational church last evening to hear the farewell recital given by Mrs. Zoe Pearl Park. Between four and five hundred people were present and the enjoyment of the occasion was only marred by the thought that it was to be the last public appearance of Mrs. Park in Janesville where she has served for the past year in the capacity of musical director and teacher at the Congregational church. Mrs. Park's entire number brought forth the hearty applause which she shared with her able accompanist. She has a dramatic contralto voice of rare and unusual beauty and sings with all the requisite style and finish. With her charming personality she is truly an artist of rare abilities, always willing to serve for the highest ideals in art. A woman in the truest sense of the word, equally capable as a ballad, opera or oratorio singer, her voice was as clear and sweet after the severe strain of a long and difficult program as at the beginning.

Mrs. Park was recalled again and again and was compelled to repeat several selections among them Miss Ada L. Pond's composition "The Night Hymn" to the composer. Mrs. Park received her many friends at the close of her program and all declared that it was a wonderfully beautiful recital, sung in a truly artistic manner. They wished her continued and greater success in her new field of labor.

Too much need be said of the artistic accompanying of Mr. Charles Lurvey. He has all the qualities which go to make a successful musician and his combined abilities make him one of the few real accompanists in the country. He is very sympathetic in his playing and gives the singer the support which only artists can. Mr. Lurvey is a Wisconsin boy having been born and started in his musical career in the town of Dodge. What Smoking Will Do...

If you never used tobacco don't begin. The first time will make you a slave. When you have acquired the habit a good cigar will avert that heavy feeling after a hearty dinner. When alone it will be good company and in the parlor the aroma of a good cigar will render the atmosphere more agreeable. If you must be up nights, it will keep your eyes open. Too much will irritate you. A pipe is the most convenient but will make it disagreeable for others. Cigarettes are the most objectionable, but are not as injurious as supposed to be. If not inhaled and moderately used, a cigar inhaled is as bad as a cigarette. Chewing agrees with most hard-working men and gives them more endurance, but it's a bad habit. Using tobacco is a necessity for some and a luxury for others. Whatever it is, be particular that you get the purest and best quality tobacco manufactured under best conditions.

pushed rapidly, and unless unforeseen delays occur the new south wing will be ready for occupancy when the legislature convenes in 1913. Meanwhile commissioners and boards housed here in the Washington building have been moved to the quarters lately occupied by the senate and assembly. This will mean a saving in rentals of more than $11,000 during this administration.
A stringent corrupt practices act, a presidential preference primary, and provision for the second choice ballot have been wrought into law. The position of insurance commissioner, the duties requiring that he be an expert, has been made appellate. This is a step toward the much desired shorter ballot. Constitutional amendments for the initiative, the referendum and the recall have been submitted to the people. Home rule has been granted to cities. State aid for good roads has been realized and a highway commission named to administer the good roads law.
59 Hour Law.
A water power law, providing a comprehensive plan for the development and operation of water power plants, guarding the public against any possible unjust rates in the future, and insuring proper compensation to the people for the franchise rights granted, has been passed. This law has been argued before and submitted to the supreme court, and has an income tax law, passed by the same legislature.

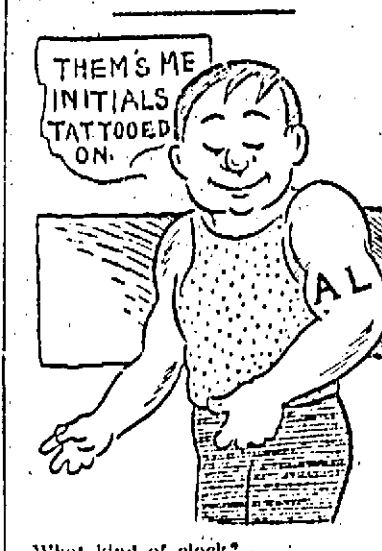

Women and children employees have been protected against excessive hours of labor, and industrial education commission has been named and is at work. The scope of factory laws has been extended and proper sanitation and fire protection in all places of employment provided for, and laws affecting public health agencies strengthened. Protection against false weights and measures has been given.

Delightful Program Enjoyed by Large Audience Last Evening—Other News.
(Special to this Gazette)
Evansville, Dec. 30.—The circus given by the members of the Y. M. C. A. last week was very good and was given to a large and appreciative audience. Part I was exceptionally good, consisting of funny songs, stories and stunts. The jokes given about different citizens of the city were to the point, causing much laughter from the audience. Many of the exhibitions given in the second part show the good work the boys are doing in the gymnasium. Much credit is due the social committee, also the director and president, for the time and work spent in preparing for the circus.

A Guess From Habit.

No Protection for Seagulls.
Seagulls have increased in numbers so enormously in Devonshire, and have caused so much damage to fish, that the Devon sea fisheries committee has passed a resolution in favor of the removal of protection from the birds and their eggs. It was estimated that one gull ate ten fish in twenty-four hours.—Pall Mall Gazette.

Will Take an Airing.
An Ohio man claims to have invented an airship that "will stay up for months." It will doubtless make a hit with men who occasionally find it necessary to dodge their creditors.—Whittier News.

A Few Statistics.
Do you love statistics. Try these. They are very nice. Three million matches are lighted in this world every minute in every hour of each day. Seven billion is the enormous number for the entire year, and those living under the American flag are said to be responsible for the consumption of one-half of this amount. These figures do not include matches made in heaven, of course.

A Tired Reformer.
We know so many things that should be done that we no longer hope to see them accomplished during our lifetime.—Arlington Globe.

Oyster Shell Roman Roads.
Many people have wondered what becomes of pins and needles and oyster shells. The Roman settlers seem to have used them to advantage, for the streets of the ancient Verulamium, by St. Albans, which is to be further excavated, are paved with oyster shells, which seems to indicate good taste and economy on the part of our predecessors.—Westminster Gazette.

Does Seem Queer.
Isn't it queer that the autos that the yeggmen use when they go out to blow open a post office safe never seem to break down?—Somerville Journal.

True Reform.
Reform, like charity, must begin at home. Once well at home, how it will radiate outwards, irrepressible, into all that we touch and handle, speak and work; kindling ever new light by its calculable contagion, spreading in geometric ratio, far and wide, doing good only wherever it spreads, and not evil.—Carlyle.

Size of Little Moment.
"It doesn't allow take a very big man to make a heap of disturbance," said Uncle Eben. "Sometimes you kin smash a fine piece o' machinery by droppin' a rusty nail into it."

Looking Backward for the Past Twelve Months

THE RETROSPECT of life is not always satisfactory because so many wasted opportunities are recognized, but this backward glance is always helpful if it stirs ambition and inspires purpose. The review of a city's life for a year is a history of units which make up the population. A record of the births and deaths, of the improvements which have added to growth and development, and of important events which have contributed to every day experience. Such a history can only be found in the files of a daily paper because this is the only medium whose mission it is to chronicle events as they occur. This issue of The Gazette is devoted to a review of the year.

The common expression of people who return to Janesville, after prolonged absence is, "How much the city has improved." They never complain of getting lost in the old familiar streets, because there are enough of the old landmarks left for guideboards, but they are impressed with wideness of substantial improvements on every hand.

This is the sort of growth which gives character to a city, yet it goes on so gradually that the average citizen, who spends his life at home, rarely appreciates it. That the year 1911 has contributed freely to this kind of growth is evidenced by the record on another page.

The business men of the Bower City have long been noted for honesty and stability and while conservative they are also progressive and ever ready to contribute to the city's welfare. It will be noticed that no failures are recorded, indeed, they are so rare that the record of the past quarter century is practically a blank.

The manufacturing industries share with business in general prosperity, and unlike many other inland cities, the employee has found steady work at remunerative wages. While it would be gratifying if the number of these industries were increased, there is satisfaction in knowing that labor conditions are seldom disturbed and that strikes and lockouts are unknown.

The health of the city has been uniformly good and the death rate normal. People live to a good old age in Southern Wisconsin and no city in the state presents a better bill of health than the Bower City. Old age is not a disease, and the people who are living on borrowed time have furnished most of the recruits for the Silent City on the hill.

The schools continue to speak well for the educational advantages, and the course of instruction is being made more practical every year. As a result the coming generation will carry into life a better equipment than its predecessors, because more intelligently furnished.

The churches and all good citizens are now united in an effort to give the city a correct form of city government which in the end will result in business and moral reform. Both are needed and it is gratify to know that public sentiment has been crystallized along these lines.

The year has been a prosperous year for Janesville and the record will pass to history as one of the best years in its experience. The spirit of generosity brought out by the cyclone in November was shared by all the people and speaks well for the city. It is a goodly town for a home and will grow better with the passing years through mutual effort. The Gazette wishes everybody a happy New Year.

HOMES OF CHARACTER

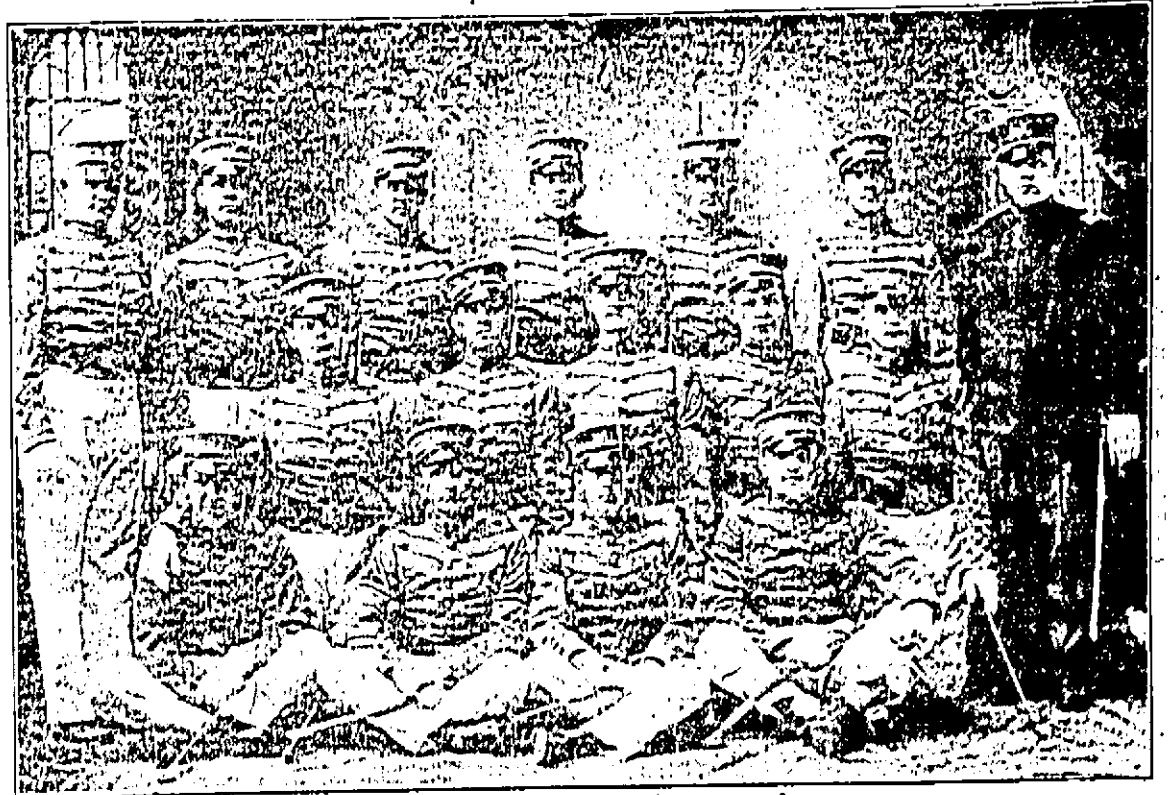

If one will but note that in the majority of successful homes, an architect, and generally one of standing or ability, has been employed, and that in the ever-increasing number of homes being built or projected the same fact holds true. It is plain to be seen that the American people are awakening to the demand and appreciation of a higher standard of art as applied to the design and construction of their dwellings and that this demand will make possible the development of the "American Type of Home of the Future."

Man, it is said, "necessarily builds but once," and in view of the high regard with which a man respects his home or the sentiment attached to it on the one hand and his tastes, likes and dislikes, wants and varied requirements on the other, he makes no mistake by intrusting these complex details to an architect of standing or one specially trained in the handling of matters of this nature, for their embodiment or omission in the design of the building of his choice.

In the earlier period of our history we were content to erect one building just like another, or perhaps a little different in the mode of execution. A building for a Southern Planter would also house a New Jersey Merchant in New England States and without passing through any stage of development or undergoing any change whatever, and we are not surprised if we stop to consider this, that there was no development in the buildings erected during this period. But now, how different we find all this; more noticeable perhaps in the better class of residences erected. One person no longer is content to dwell or to have in his possession the identical thing of another, or even a near likeness to it, but demands a home which shall be his individual home, and partake of its home atmosphere, and it is this demand more than any other that makes possible a "Home of Character."

Our 1912 Line IS BETTER THAN EVER

Now is the time to look over your farm machinery and decide what tools you will want to purchase for the work of next year. If you wait until Spring is here, you will be obliged to buy in a hurry, with all the attendant difficulties of late buying, and delayed shipments.

The International New Low Spreader is still in the lead of the spreader procession. It is made in the Endless and Reverse Apron Types, and has all the improvements of the year. You will make no mistake when you put your money in this machine.

That Iron Hired Man

Can still be bought, in the shape of a Fuller and Johnson Gasoline Engine, and there is nothing on the farm today which saves so much labor and makes itself quite so valuable. It can be made to pump the water, run the Cream Separator, turn the Fanning Mill, the Churn and the Washing Machine, and in fact if you are so minded, and will take a little thought, it can be harnessed to the cradle to put the baby to sleep.

CREAM SEPARATORS

are always in demand on a farm, and there is none better on the market today than is the Sharples Tubular. It will stand up under any work that is put on it to do, and will give absolute satisfaction.

SILOS, PLOWS, Both RIDING and WALKING, DISC HARROWS Cultivators, Buggies, Wagons, Smoothing Harrows, Binders Shredders

In fact, we sell everything that can be used on the farm to lighten the work, and all at prices which are within the reach of every one. Our past year was one of the best we have ever passed through, thanks to those who have patronized us so liberally. Look in on us before you do your buying for next year and we will show you a line of Farm Machinery which can not be excelled.

We are at the same old stand.

BABY PITIFUL SIGHT WITH ECZEMA

Completely Covered. Bandaged from Head to Foot. Dared Not Wash Him. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment 4 Weeks and He Was Cured.

"A few days after birth we noticed an inflammation about baby's hip which soon began spreading until baby was completely covered even in his eyes, ears and scalp. For eight weeks he was bandaged from head to foot. He could not have a stitch of clothing on. Our regular physician pronounced it chronic eczema. He is a very able physician and ranks with the best in this locality, nevertheless, the disease began spreading until baby was completely covered. He was losing flesh so rapidly that we became alarmed and decided to try Cuticura Soap and Ointment. "Not until I commenced using Cuticura Soap and Ointment could we get him washed like as we did not wash him, and looked like as we did not wash him, and I had been putting one application after another on him. On removing the band from his head the hair came off, and left him entirely bald, but since we have been using Cuticura Soap and Ointment he has as much hair as ever. Four weeks after we began to use the Cuticura Soap and Ointment he was entirely cured. I don't believe anyone could have eczema worse than our baby. "Before we used the Cuticura Remedies we could hardly see him. He would fuss until I would wash him, they seemed to relieve him so much. Cuticura soap and Ointment stand by themselves and the result they quickly and completely cured him. I am a member of the Cuticura Club and Ointment sold throughout the world. Send to Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Dept. 244, Boston, for a Blood Purifier of each, post-free, with 32-p. book on the skin."

THE BEST PROOF

Janesville Citizens Cannot Doubt It.

Doan's Kidney Pills were used—they cured.

The story was told to Janesville residents.

Time has strengthened the evidence.

Has proven the cure permanent.

The testimony is home testimony.

The proof convincing.

The story was told to Janesville residents.

Mrs. E. J. O'Brien, 1020 W. Bluff St., Janesville, Wis., says: "It is with pleasure that I recommend Doan's Kidney Pills. I have used them and know whereof I speak when I say that they are a reliable kidney medicine. For ten years I suffered from kidney complaint but since using Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at the People's Drug Store, I have enjoyed better health. I hope that my statement will lead other kidney sufferers to try Doan's Kidney Pills." (Statement given in August, 1908.)

Re-Endorsement.

When Mrs. O'Brien was interviewed on September 25, 1910, she added to the above: "I am still glad to say a word in praise of Doan's Kidney Pills. Occasionally during the past two years, when I have needed a kidney medicine, I have taken this remedy and the results have always been satisfactory."

Disease Gives Way Readily to Chiropractic

We use the term "disease." "Disease" implies the unbalance of life current, impulses from the brain, through a given amount of matter, the human body. The cause of this unbalance of current through the human body is caused by vertebral "subluxations." The word "subluxation" is but a term to show that one spinal bone instead of being on top of the other as it should be, is a bit crooked, twisted to one side. Consequently the nerve that before nicely filled the open window is now compressed, closed, crowded and squeezed into proportionate space to the degree of subluxation. Could you expect the same amount of current to go through those nerves under pressure, as they would with the bones in their proper places? No, you would not. The Chiropractor, by adjusting the subluxation, brings back to normal, the out of place bone and restores that "disease" to "ease" by restoring the natural flow of currents from the brain to all portions. For instance, you have appendicitis. He knows specifically which, when, how much and where to adjust the spinal bones to restore the conditions of "health." If you suffer from disease in any form, call at our office and let us tell you which of your vertebral is out of line and what adjustment is necessary to remove the cause of your disease.

The Janesville Pure Milk Co.

AN INSTITUTION OF MORE THAN ORDINARY VALUE TO THE CITY OF JANESVILLE

FEW people realize the great value they derive from being able to have Pasteurized Milk daily and few people realize the fact that Janesville has one of the best milk depots in the country.

Pasteurized Milk Will Prevent Typhoid

This is a mathematical certainty. So says Nathan Straus, of New York, a noted philanthropist and one of the merchant princes of the Metropolis.

In a paper read before the American Public Health Association in New York, Mr. Straus made the forceful declaration that—

"Typhoid Fever, as well as other diseases, including tuberculosis, scarlet fever and diphtheria, can be prevented by the thorough pasteurization of the milk supply."

This before a body of the world's most learned men—men who have spent their lives finding new ways and means for safeguarding the public health—and in the course of Mr. Straus' able talk on "The Milk-Born Epidemic of Typhoid Fever in New York."

That is the unqualified statement of Mr. Straus—"Pasteurized Milk Will Prevent Typhoid Fever." Not can, or may, or might—mind you, but WILL! There's no equivocation in that word.

How does he know?

Six Delivery Wagons Required to Deliver Our Pasteurized Milk Each Day.

From his experience with the epidemic in New York, mentioned above, in which Mr. Straus took a very active part. Listen—

The origin of the seven-weeks' epidemic in New York, when 1242 cases of typhoid fever were reported, was discussed at length by Mr. Straus, who asserted that the source was traced to one of the large milk distributing concerns that supplied the afflicted portion of the city with new milk.

The discovery, he declared, was not made until 150 cases had developed among customers of the milk company. The health department immediately directed them to pasteurize their milk, which was done from September 10 to October 2, when the epidemic ceased.

"As it requires three weeks for typhoid fever to develop," continued Mr. Straus, "after the system has been infected, this experience amounts to a mathematical demonstration of the efficacy of pasteurization. This is a concrete illustration—one of the hundreds coming to my attention in the eighteen years that I have been endeavoring to save people, especially babies, from the diseases that are caused by infected milk."

2500 Bottles of Our Pasteurized Milk Sold Every Day In Janesville

Your safety lies in using only Pasteurized Milk—the safety of yourself and your entire family. It isn't worth while to run the risk of typhoid fever and other dread diseases—"Use Our Pasteurized Milk."

Ours is the only modern plant in the city. It's adequately modern in every way. Come visit us and let us explain the pasteurizing process to you—it's mighty interesting and brings out all the reasons why Pasteurized Milk should be the only kind used.

Pasteurized Milk Costs No More Than Raw Milk

Yet it is richer, sweeter, purer and better. Telephone and have our wagon stop. You will never be satisfied with any other milk.

Overland

The Mechanical Excellence of this $900 30-Horsepower Touring Car

FAMILIARIZE yourself with the mechanical side of an automobile and you can quickly arrive at any car's real value. This does not necessarily mean that you should know a car from A to Z as a professional engineer does, but you should know enough of the fundamentals to be able to tell the difference and judge values accordingly. The chassis is the backbone of an automobile and the more you know of this the more intelligently you can estimate a car's value in dollars and cents.

We have asked you to measure up the facts of this $900 car against the facts of any $1250 car on the market in order to show you the slight difference. Here we wish to acquaint you with the mechanical side of this car—to prove the thoroughness and fitness of its entire construction. And the mechanical excellence of this $900 thirty-horsepower touring car is best explained by a brief synopsis of the facts covering its construction.

The motor is a four-cylinder, four-cycle type of Overland design and manufacture. Cylinders are cast singly and have large water jackets. Crank, shafts, connecting rods and other motor forgings are made of high carbon manganese steel. The motor is suspended from three points on the main frame, and is constructed in its entirety with a view to accessibility of all parts.

Valves are of the mushroom type and interchangeable, made from 35% nickel steel heads, electrically welded to carbon steel stems. Their design and large size enable the motor to develop 15% more horsepower than any other motor of the same bore and stroke.

The radiator is of the famous Kinwood flat tube type. The radiating surface is unusually large, with large diameter intake and outlet openings.

The frame is constructed of cold rolled pressed steel, formed in channel sections of effective design, great strength and stability.

Steering gears are of worm and worm-gear type. The steering connecting rod between the steering knuckles and steering column gear is placed in such a manner as to minimize stresses and vibrations.

The transmission is of the selective type—three speeds and reverse. The speed changing, final drive, and differential gears are contained in the rear axle unit.

A smoother, more delicate, and at the same time more positive clutch than the Overland cone clutch does not exist. It is of such design and construction that in starting the car there is never a shock or jar. The facing is not lubricated. It is, therefore, unaffected by weather conditions.

This is the only car in its class provided with a five-bearing crank shaft. This crank shaft is dropped forged from one piece of carbon manganese steel and rotates in five bearings of unusually liberal peripheral area, ensuring quietness and extremely long life.

Lubrication is provided by a force feed mechanical oiler actuated by the cam shaft.

Wheels are of heavy artillery type of special construction and equal to those used on the most expensive cars.

Front axles are of the I-beam section type, drop-forged in one piece, heat-treated in the most approved manner in our own factories, and capable of withstanding the severest road shocks.

Brakes are particularly large and have ample friction areas. There are two brakes on each rear wheel, the inside or foot-brake which is internal expanding; the outside or emergency brake which is external contracting.

Springs are of the semi-elliptic and three-quarter elliptic type. The rear springs are mounted on spring chairs that have a lubricated bearing on the rear axle tubes. This form of construction produces an easy-riding car, as it permits the springs to act freely.

Final drive is effected from the propeller shaft to the rear axle by means of accurately cut and carefully hardened bevel gears, the usual differential and two live axle shafts which drive the rear wheels. Special roller bearings are provided for all rotating components, and the bevel gears and pinion are of drop-forged, nickel steel, cut in accurate Overland style, and scientifically heat treated.

We have tried to make this as brief as possible without omitting any of the essentials. It is the kind of information that shows you exactly what a car is worth.

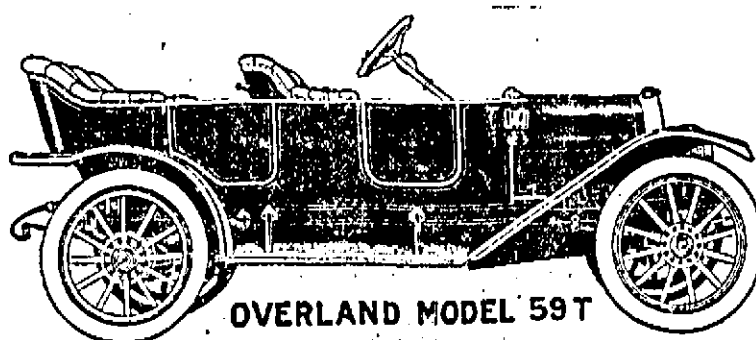

We have published a book which we want you to read. It covers in detail every single part of this car. Not only what the construction is, but how each part is made—showing each factory operation from body to bolt.

Better let us send you one of these books. It is the most interesting and thorough work of its kind ever written and fully explains the ability of the greatest automobile plant in the world to make a car of the 30-horse-power, 5-passenger touring car type to sell at from 30% to 40% less money than any other similar car on the market.

The reason why is told in a few words.
ness on a small profit.

Over 75,000 of these Model T Cars have been sold—THEREFORE BUY A FORD

When Henry Ford built his first automobile, he realized its importance as a factor in the progressive life of America and he determined to build a motor car that would have the largest demand from ALL the people. He knew that such a car must be light in weight, reliable in construction, inexpensive to maintain and low in price.

From that memorable day in 1903 when the FORD MOTOR Co. was organized, there has been no halt in its march of achievement. Ford has been "doing things" every day—working to one purpose: A car for the people at a price the people can pay.

To fully achieve this purpose FORD cars must be made in such large quantities that a small margin over the cost would produce a satisfactory profit. Continuous quantity demand could only be assured through quality of production and perfect after service to owners.

To establish this quality, there must be specialization and organization to accompany inventive and mechanical genius. It is an accepted fact that Henry Ford is the one original and most successful designer of motor cars.

From the beginning all FORD efforts have been concentrated upon one model. Concentration is a fixed principle with Mr. Ford, in order that perfection of product with the utmost economy in manufacture may be had. And so, throughout the entire Ford plant, in every department, every man and every machine is busy on the production of this one Model T.

We have built and fully equipped the most complete automobile manufacturing plant in the world. All of which has been paid for from the profits earned on the business of previous years.

Our factory is built to profit from quantity production. Occupying 60 acres of ground, built and equipped at a cost of two and a half million dollars, it is unsurpassed in the industry. The main building is four stories in height, possessing over one-half million square feet of floor space. To the FORD factory facilities is added the greatest of operating systems—a model in the eyes of industrial men everywhere.

In the cylinder department special machinery has been installed which enables the operators to turn out fifteen (15) cylinders at one time. Most factories turn out one (1) cylinder at a time, but with this mechanical aid we are able to turn out fifteen (15) cylinders at one time, absolutely perfect in every detail. The cars which would be exercised on one (1) cylinder is exercised upon fifteen (15), thereby saving time and money by multiplying the output of one operation.

The same class of machinery—only more of it—is used in the gear department as is found in the factories which make a specialty of higher priced cars. The motor assembling department has a capacity of over 300 per day. There is an automatic department where nuts, studs, screws, bolts, etc., are turned out at the rate of hundreds every hour.

By thus reducing the cost of production per car over 75,000 cars will be built in 1912 at a less cost per car than it cost us to make 30,000 in 1911—though materials and labor practically cost the same.

Our normal working force is 4,000 men, building 75,000 cars. Contrast this with factories employing from 7,000 to 12,000 men and making only 10,000 cars and less. Wages and overhead expense are a large part of the cost of any car. Here's where FORD factory equipment and manufacturing organization reduces cost of production, while accentuating excellence in the quality of FORD cars.

These sort of facilities, combined with the purchase of the entire output of steel mills and equipment factories, give the reasons for the enormous FORD production and the extraordinary low price of the completed car.

The Ford Company has no bond issues to pay off. There are no mortgages upon their property. They have no indebtedness. They do business on the "spot cash" discount basis, purchasing in large quantities, commanding the lowest prices in the market of materials. Therefore can well afford to sell The Ford Model T at the above low prices.

The FORD Model T is made through and through of Vanadium steel, the most expensive steel in the world and the toughest known. It is impossible to obtain the same results with any other steel. Although it is made a feature in the specifications of several makers, in no other car is it used so absolutely as in the FORD cars.

Vanadium, an alloy, melted into the crude steel, adds to the tensile strength, prevents crystallization, or crumbling of the steel and gives added elasticity that is not found in any other steel. Vanadium Steel is stronger than chrome-nickel steel, manganese steel, or any other kind of steel.

All steel is able to withstand heavy load; the test comes with the vibration or shock. A steel girder which helps hold a great building will perform faithfully as long as there is little vibration, but it will quickly break if subjected to unusual vibration, or shock. Automobile steel is under constant vibrational strain, torsional strain or shock. Vanadium Steel has greater strength to withstand such a wear. This is the reason for the strength of the FORD Model T.

Gears, axles, shafts, springs, levers and every strain or load bearing part of the FORD Model T is of Vanadium Steel. This is the secret of the lightness and strength of the FORD. With such a steel it is only necessary to make parts one-fifth the size of ordinary automobile parts, and still have them stronger.

It's best of all special steels is further strengthened by scientific heat treatment in the FORD heat treating plant. After $200,000 had been spent in our search for the best steel, thousands more were spent in equipping the most complete heat treating plant possible. This heat treatment brings the axis of every molecule of the steel parallel to that of its neighbor. Clamps the thousands of molecules into a compact, strain-resisting mass, defying crystallization.

Every strain-bearing steel part of a FORD Model T is scientifically treated in this up-to-date and modern plant by passing through from three to four ovens, equipped with electrical temperature devices. Not one vital part is thus treated, but each part, from crankshaft to fender iron. (A FORD car may be lifted from the ground by its fender irons.

Strains are considered—sudden shocks, torsional strain and vibration. Pivots are necessarily differently treated than shaft drives because of the different nature of the strain to which they are subjected. Just as each FORD Model T part requires a certain predetermined amount of Vanadium so does each piece call for a different heat treatment for a longer or shorter time. We get the maximum results from the very best steel which money can buy.

When a piece of Vanadium Steel is placed in a Ford car, it is as perfect as human hands and brains can make it. Out of every shipment of steel three pieces are selected at random and subjected to a chemical analysis before the shipment is marked fit for heat treatment. There are five tests on the steel before it is machined and an inspection after every machine operation.

Over 75,000 FORD owners are this minute proving the durability and economy of FORD construction. Over 75,000 FORD owners know that the FORD is built so light and yet so strong that it costs less to maintain than any other car. That is why the FORD is now and will continue to be the favorite and foremost amongst all motor cars.

Vanadium Steel causes FORD repair bills to be less. FORD weight proportionate to the horsepower causes fuel bills to be smaller—tires to cost less. One gallon of gasoline carries a FORD twenty to twenty-five miles. One set of tires carries a FORD from 5,000 to 10,000 miles.

FORD ingenuity has originated brakes, with a braking surface of 6.1 square inches per pound weight; the average is 5.1 square inch. FORD tires are the largest, per pound weight, of any automobile—2.33 cubic inches of tire per pound. Hence the FORD tire economy. There is no necessity for a FORD Model T to be equipped with extra tires.

The FORD magneto is an integral part of the unit power plant. No batteries are used, no brushes, gearing, or moving wires. Trouble makers have been banished. A slight movement of the flywheel generates current enough to make a powerful spark.

The FORD Model T was the first car with the left drive, now being copied by many. When you are seated upon the right side you are at a great disadvantage in learning whether a vehicle is overtaking you upon your left—as required by traffic regulations—and the moment you turn to the left, looking behind you on the right a large section of the street is hidden from view by your own car. To have a clear view you must stand up and look over the back of the car. If the design of the car prevents that course you must leave your seat and look behind from the left. A turn to the right does not require any of these precautions. Vehicles are not supposed to pass you on that side, and there is no occasion for extreme caution when changing your course in that direction.

In stormy weather you are permitted to alight from your car at the curb from the right side. With the right drive you are either forced to crawl over the levers, or tramp around in the mud from the left side.

The FORD Model T has met all the demands of city and country life. It is the family car of pleasure, the fast car for the busy business men, the reliable car day and night for the doctor, the dependable car on the farm,—all because of its being built to fill a practical mission. It is all that a car should be, filling an all around service,—a car for the people, and at a price that anyone who can afford to keep a horse and buggy can pay.

Ford Service for Ford Owners

The car on the road means as much to us as the car in the showroom. "This is the 'why' of FORD SERVICE FOR FORD OWNERS—the first and most complete service in the automobile industry.

FORD SERVICE FOR FORD OWNERS is as extensive as the company's sales organization which covers the world. FORD dealers number into the thousands. FORD branch houses are established in all the leading cities in the world. Fifty miles in almost any direction in this country brings you to a FORD dealer and supply depot.

Every Ford Model T buyer knows exactly what repair parts will cost him. At the time of purchasing his car he is supplied with a complete parts price-list, in which every individual part is individually priced.

The FORD Model T is the reflection of the personal integrity of the Company behind it. The organization, personal and policy of this company is the same today as on the day of its organization nine years ago. Greater assurance of satisfactory service cannot be given to the buyer of any motor car than the service which goes with the FORD.

Make arrangements with us for a demonstration. Send to us for FORD descriptive literature.

"Buy a Ford Car because it is a better car, not because it is cheaper."—Henry Ford.

This is the challenge of confident merit—merit in every detail of automobile construction, and automobile service—that merit which has been so consistently and continuously demonstrated by FORD Cars through years of exacting demand in every kind of service. In the fierce battle of the million-minute races, in the most difficult hill climbing contests, in the long endurance test across the continent, from the Atlantic to the Pacific, pioneering roadless plains and deserts, fording streams, scaling mountains, through mud and sand, loading the way successfully through tests which racked and strained every part of the car but could not break it down.

These tests have been made to prove the scientific correctness of FORD design and the strength of FORD construction; to prove beyond a doubt that an automobile could be built light in weight, yet strong and everlasting reliable; to prove that the FORD was an all-around car of general utility, necessary to the demands of progressive civilization, equally valuable in city and country.

A completely equipped Touring Car for $690 that will take you and your family anywhere you want to go in town or country—forty or more miles an hour, if you wish—quietly, smoothly, and comfortably. Yes, luxuriously, from 20 to 25 miles on one gallon of gasoline, from 5,000 to 10,000 miles on one set of tires. Can you beat it? What more can any car at any price give you in service?

If you want a car for only two or three passengers, take the FORD Model T Roadster; same chassis, same power plant, same construction, with a different body, for $500.00. Fully equipped.

It seems impossible that such a proven, reliable car can be sold for such a low price. But herein is the triumph of Henry Ford—a car for all people at a price within the possibility of nearly every man. It has taken eight years to accomplish this achievement in automobile construction, and an investment exceeding seven million dollars; but the victory is complete in the FORD Model T.

In all the world no other car like this. Isn't the FORD the car you will buy. It is not alone the sterling reliability of the FORD, the high quality of its construction, nor the remarkably low purchase price, but there is a powerful appeal in the cheapness of running a FORD—the low cost of upkeep or maintenance, after you've bought it. This is something to think about when buying a car: "How much will it cost me to run it?"

The FORD Model T weighs about 1,200 pounds. Other cars of the same power and size weigh from 1,800 to 2,200 pounds, yet by Vanadium Steel construction (which we tell you of more fully in another part of this page) the FORD has by far the greatest strength.

Light weight means smoother riding—the FORD load—less power necessary to carry the car itself. Light weight means less jarring and strain on the motor and mechanism of the car; therefore, longer life with less repairs than in the heavier car.

Light weight means another riding—the FORD with scientifically proportioned tires and absolutely evenly balanced spring riders over the rough places where the heavier car bounds and jolts unpleasantly.

Light weight means more mileage to the gallon of gasoline; means longer service from tires.

The FORD Model T is the lightest weight car in the world—size, power and capacity considered—and herein lies the certain economy in up-keep and satisfaction in service.

Another important and basic principle with us from the beginning is this: Our interest does not end with the sale of the car, but continues during the life of the car.

Including Ford branches, there are nearly 2,500 FORD dealers in the United States—they are everywhere, and, wherever they are, they are alert and active in looking after the interest of Ford owners. This entire page is filled with valuable information regarding FORD cars. Read every word. There isn't an exaggeration nor misstatement. Then, when you buy an automobile, "buy a FORD because it is a better car—not because it is cheaper." Buy it in the confidence that you will get more car more comfort, more pleasure, more value for your money than you can in buying any other automobile in the world.

Compare FORD Model T with any other—with all other cars. Compare it part by part. Let the FORD dealer explain the construction of the car; ask him all the questions you may think important; let him give you a demonstration of FORD riding qualities; let him show you how simple the FORD is in operation; then examine other cars the same way. Compare, we say, we urge, we coax comparison, because the FORD is sure to win your confidence strictly upon its merits.

Over 75,000 Ford cars in service at this very minute. There's a reason; and that reason is FORD design, construction, durability, service and economy in price and maintenance.

CURIOUS BITS OF HISTORY

JOHN KAY AND HIS FLYING SHUTTLE.

By A. W. MACY.

In 1733 John Kay of Yorkshire, England, took out a patent for a "flying shuttle," which was the most important improvement ever made in the hand loom. This invention made it possible for the weaver to sit still and by pulling two cords alternately throw the shuttle to and fro. One man could therefore weave broadcloth instead of its requiring two as before. The other weavers of England were quick to make use of the invention, but were not so ready to pay a royalty to the inventor. They formed a "Shuttle Club" for the purpose of defending infringements of the patent; and Kay was soon involved in numerous lawsuits. At one time a mob broke into his house and destroyed nearly everything he had, he himself barely escaping with his life. He profited very little by his invention.

Fires During the Past Twelve Months

Comparison of the total number of fire alarms in 1910 and 1911 reveal a marked reduction in the latter year. The total for 1910 was one hundred and thirty-seven, for 1911 eighty-seven. The high-water mark of the year was reached in March, when fifteen alarms were turned in, and the lowest in December, the department responding to but two. Twenty-one calls were to chimney fires, fifteen were to grass fires, eight of which occurred in the month of March, and within two hours early in the morning of August 13, the department was summoned to extinguish three fires caused by lightning. Five were false alarms.

Rich in Love.

We lightly value our wealth in love. Multitudes of us are finding in a false sense of poverty when close at home are faithful hearts that, if taken from us, as they might be next week, would leave a void that not the wealth of Indies would fill.—J. Urieley.

They are making lace from human hair now. No, it is not for trimming dresses with, but is used for the partings of wigs. It is made by hand, and the knots are held by a solution of wax, otherwise they would unravel. When this lace is used it takes an almost microscopic examination to detect that the wig is not natural.

Happy New Year To All

TO EVERY MAN, WOMAN AND CHILD WE WISH YOU ALL A HAPPY NEW YEAR.

Only one more day left of the old year, 1911. Are we thankful for all the past favors and blessings, that we have received, or are we complaining and whining because things don't just move our way? The old saying runs this way and is quite true. This world is not so bad a world as some would like to make it, though whether good or whether bad, it depends on how we take it.

Suggestions For The New Year

Pay your debts as fast as they come due. Be honest with all men, and as much as lieth within you live peaceably with all men.

BUY YOUR PIANOS, PIANO-PLAYERS AND GRAND PIANOS FROM H. F. NOTT.

Buy where you may get value received in an instrument to the value you wish to pay.

Buy where pianos are sold for quality of tone, and where the tone retains its sweetness.

Buy where pianos have been made from the very best material inside, as well as outside.

Buy where time, talent and money have been spent, to purchase those Pianos that will give you entire satisfaction.

Buy where a child, ten or twelve years of age, can make a selection without making a mistake.

Buy pianos where the manufacturers stand back of the name on the piano and are held responsible for any defect in workmanship.

Buy your pianos up stairs in the Carpenter Block, rooms No. 4 and 5, the same place where others have bought in the past year and are satisfied.

Wood for Lead Pencils.
The annual output of lead pencils in this country is more than 320,000,000. The cedar wood is used in making them weigh about 100,000 tons, and nearly three-fourths of a cent's worth of wood is required for each pencil. No other wood is so good for the purpose, and the timber is becoming scarce. Old cedar planks and fence rails now find a ready sale.

Carping.
The professor of literature had been criticised sharply for certain letters written by him. "Confound those cheap critics," he muttered, "there's nothing wrong with the letters. I defy any one to find a split infinitive in the lot."

Looking Backward for the Past Twelve Months

Buildings Erected During the Past Year

There has been a normal amount of building and construction work in Janesville during the past year. It has not been phenomenal in its proportions, but it has indicated a progressive tendency which speaks well for the city.

In the way of factory and other large buildings, the construction this year has not been as extensive as last. There have been five store buildings erected this year, however, and several have been so extensively remodeled as to amount to practically new buildings.

There have been several flat buildings and double houses built this season, showing the increasing demand for apartments on the part of Janesville residents. Of these the Cullen flats on Milwaukee avenue are undoubtedly the finest and best equipped, the total cost aggregating $17,000. Other buildings have been limited of these new crumbling remnants of the past, which have, indeed, their interesting stories and quaint memories, but nothing more for their time of usefulness has passed and they are only a blot on valuable lots which might be devoted to more profitable use.

Among other things which attract the attention in reviewing the construction work of the year, is the fact that there is an unusually large amount of building and contracting work in progress at the present time. It is seldom that there is found so many excavations being made, or so many homes which are being just finished at this, the closing part of the year, and the beginning of winter. But it is a matter of note that there are a half dozen good-sized buildings just started and that contractors state that they have never before enjoyed such a promising outlook at this time of the year. This may be taken to mean an impetus in building operations in Janesville in the year 1912. In fact, as has been said, all that is needed in Janesville to cause a burst in real estate values and in construction work, is the advent of a new factory of a substantial sort. As matters stand at present up-to-date modern residences are in increasing demand and more than the normal number of homeowners will boost the rentals and require the building of new homes. Regarding labor conditions in the building and contracting lines this year, there has been little matter for complaint. Nearly all the contractors were satisfied with the amount of work done and in the labor which they secured to do it.

The various buildings and homes erected are briefly reviewed as follows: Among the important buildings erected this year is the Cullen flat building on Milwaukee avenue, built for Cullen Brothers, George H. and J.

T. Cullen. The structure is three stories, with two seven-room flats on each floor, the ground space being 36x64 feet. The construction work is of brick. Flats are fitted with all modern improvements including steam heat and front and rear triple deck porches. The approximate cost of the building is placed at $17,000. Sadler and Hilton, architects, Ford and Boos, contractors.

Another flat building now under construction is that of J. H. Dower, on South Main street and Oakland avenue. The building is of frame construction with double porches on front and rear. The flats will be equipped with all modern conveniences and will be heated with both water. Cost is estimated at $1,500. Van Pool Brothers, contractors.

Sadler and Hilton, architects, J. H. Burns, Holoff, contractor.

tion in the rear and an entire remodeling of the store occupied by Pond and Bailey. Cost is estimated at $5,000. William H. Blair, architect, Jos. A. Deming and C. J. Hayes, contractors.

The new residence of Michael Hayes on South High street is one of the finest homes erected in the city during the past year. The structure is of brick with tile roof. It has twelve rooms in two stories with an attic and finished basement. All modern conveniences including a hot water heating plant are supplied and the interior design is elaborate and beautiful in every detail. The estimated cost is $12,000. William H. Blair, architect, Ford and Boos, contractors.

Mrs. Fred Lomke has a frame double house built at the corner of Lincoln and Galena streets. The building is two stories, of frame construction and cost about $4,000. James Jotsford is the owner of a fine new residence on North Pleasant street. It is a nine-room frame structure, fitted with modern conveniences, and is beautiful and commodious in all its appointments. Cost is estimated at $3,800.

A fine new home was erected for F. J. Kane on Milton avenue. It is a two story building, frame, 26x28 feet, hot water heat, hardwood finish, and modern conveniences. Cost is estimated at $1,500.

A two story frame cottage was built for W. H. Blair on Hickory street. Cost is placed at $1,800.

A seven-room frame cottage, costing approximately $2,500, was built for Arthur Ward on St. Mary's avenue. James E. Abraham had a $2,500 bungalow six rooms erected on Forest Park boulevard.

An eight room residence, the lower story in pebble-dash, the upper sided and shingled, was erected by J. W. Van Pool on Fremont street. The house contains eight rooms and is pleasing in interior and exterior. Approximate cost $2,500.

An addition was built on the residence of Chieky Nimmer on Glen street at a cost of $500.

A large and attractive veranda, two stories, was erected on the front of the residence of William Flock on East Milwaukee street.

A three story brick building with basement was erected for Al Teubert on North Franklin street. The lower floor is for store purposes, the second floor is used as a dining hall, and the third floor is a dancing hall and lodge room which may be devoted to private parties. The estimated cost of the building is placed at $10,000.

The new building of the Grey Ice company erected on Goose Island, is 100 feet long by 40 feet in width, and 24 feet high. With its equipment it makes an important addition to the company's facilities. The structure will house 2,500 tons of ice. The cost is given at $2,500.

LEMON JUICE PREFERABLE TO CIDER.

Vinegar is spoiled cider and not always pure. It may under certain circumstances be beneficial in the same way as the acid of buttermilk and that of fruits, but these are far more desirable as antiseptics. Seen under the microscope, vinegar is repulsive. It is not necessary to take acid with "cold claw," lettuce, etc., but if any is to be used lemon is best. Lemon juice is not incompatible with green vegetables. Vinegar preserves vegetables inside the stomach as it does outside—prevents digestion, although some animal foods pickled are more digestible.

Go back to your own childhood, whatever tasted half as good as a slice of Mother's bread spread with good butter? When your children ask for a "piece" what do you give them?

Your physician will tell you that a child should eat when he is hungry—that he should be given good wholesome food.

There's nothing better for YOUR children than bread made from Christian's Matchless Flour.

THE MERMAID

By George Allan
England

HURRY! HURRY! HURRY! She's here! Here! Have you seen her, ladies? Gentlemen? The mermaid. Only a nickel—half a dime. An' captured alive in the China Sea by Colonel Webb. That's right, Jack, give her plenty o' fresh, pure water. The mermaid! The mermaid! Five cents admits to everything. Ker-ak-ak-ak-ak-ak-ak!

"All the papers talkin' about her! Everybody sees her! And only half a dime to all! Just a little more water, Jack, for the China Sea gasteropodina phenomena!"

Off to one side, on a kind of scaffold, stands Jack. He's red-wattled and will kick the beam at two hundred and fifty; and he's pumpin' water in a trough. It sloshes down through a hole in the painted tent.

"Go!" says I.

Then I does a wriggle through the bunch of open-faced jaspers.

"No for her!" says I, plunkin' down. Few nickels I had, at that; but I coudn't miss a Chinese mermaid, nix!

"No for the mermaid!"

"Pass right on the inside," barks the proprietor, harvestin' my coin. "On the inside, the inside! She's here, here, here!"

I passes on the inside. It's hotter than the Hingoes, in there under canvas. Two or three rubberplants in blossom in a red cloth screen, observin' a fake—an' the big 'o goes, tool five foot long as is, that mermaid, reposin' on a pedestal; she has squigglez in her hair, an' a brown hide crackled in places so the hay shows. I shoots one look into her, an' does a quick reverse.

"Bay!" I registers a kick with his foot, "I wants that nickel back, an' wants it sudden, see?"

"He never even flashes his incandescent on me, but hangs to that wicked spiel of his—'She's here, here, here!'"

"She ain't!" I protests, raring on my hind legs. "No, nor never was! Your mermaid ain't at home anywheres outside a hayloft. And what's more, she won't last two minutes if a trotter put at her with the ivories! Dis-kerge, or I holler!"

"On your way!" he growls at me. "Th' confers for you!"

About that time, Jack has quit his froak-pure water stunt and is closing in on me. There's a mix, and Jack an' me ends ourselves tangled on the ground.

I breaks away, sits up an' looks at him. He ditto at me. Th' big, round mob ditto at both of us. Then, suddenly, I falls to who he really is.

"Why, Deaf Westerhood!" says I, rubbin' my shoulder where the ground flopped up an' pasted it. "Why—Deaf!"

"That you? Where's th' whiskers you used to float? An' why this unfamiliar corporeity? Is it you, or who is it?"

He seems me faithful a minute, herdin' together his memories; then his face folds into a grin, and out comes th' joyous palm at me.

"Gim!"

"Boo!"

Twelve years that we ain't so much as batted an eye on each other is bridged in a wink, while th' crowd stretches red, cordy necks.

"I'm sure astounded," I murmurs to him, dustin' off my raiments, "to find you engaged in a faked-breakfast-table brace game. You, you of all honest folk, perpetratin' a mermaid!"

"Fergit it!" he whispers, with-drawin' me inside the tent, away from that over-inquisitive bunch of horny-handers. "Fergit it! Times has underwent painful changes since you an' me paraded up Popularity Avnue to the rattle of a pill in a walnut-shell. It's a case with me of gaff what's offered, now, an' no comers barred. But," he adds wistful, "can you improve this here lay? You always was snappy with th' thinks. Can you dose singer into our modest attempt to put th' jacks under this rural currency?"

"Can I? Well, somoi!"

"Fine an' dandy! Percolate round to-night after th' Pike closes. I'll knock you down to th' boss, an' we'll rag-chew. Just now, it's Deafy to th' pump. But to-night you'll fall round!"

"I guess yes."

Then we clinches again, an' separates.

That's how I gets the job, see?—the job as mermaid.

It was simply a scream; twenty-five per, an' no toll to dally with—nothing to do but float or bubble or snooze in a tin tank of water, how honey-fiddly supplied by Deaf an' his pump.

Get wet? Wet nothin'! I had a padded rubber suit, green, with bunches of seaweed all over it. By keepin' my back to the come-one, an' loatin' round mostly under water, all but my head, th' game we played sent all the rest of the Pikea skurryin' for the high wood. Crowds? Never did pipe such crowds. Looked like th' boss would make a million. He doubled Deaf's pay th' second week, and come up to thirty-five on mine.

It's a good job, in spite of everythin', even includin' old ladies with sharp umbrellas, an' kids with peanuts what I have to snap at. A good job, an' good business. A mob, most all the time—so much of a mob that th' prof. hires another outside man an' tends exclusively to his lecture on deep-sea marvels. It's two hours on, an' half an hour's rest, thirty-five per, an' all expenses.

"If it lasts," thinks I, "it's me to the banker class in the directory, that's sure. I'll get th' coupon-cutting habit," says I, "if nothin' sands my bearings! Oh, joy!"

Then I flips my tail, turns my quid, and muzzles against th' professor's long pointer.

"Kindly, affectionate critters they be, these here marine mermaid marvels of th' China Sea, known to science as the 'Subaquaticus, Humaniformis,'" says he, reachin' over and strokin' my amount. "Highly intelligent, too. Go fetch, Lucy!" An' he heaves a piece of wood for me to retrieve.

"Most unfortunate," they require a dim light, like in th' caves an' fastnesses of their native abodes among th' coral reefs," says he, "or you could mark an' behold the iridescent colors an' beautiful contours of this extraordinary large specimen, captured alive after a desprits struggle by Colonel Lyander Webb, K.C.B., on the 27th of last March, off the coast of Van Diemen's Land, in th' China Sea—and now exhibited at tremendous expense—only one ever in captivity! They don't survive long in fresh water," says he, pointin' at the spout where Deaf Westerhood is puttin' in his beat looks, "and direct daylight is fatal to 'em immediatly. We will now pass out, ladies an' gents, to permit another audience in to witness this, the greatest marvel of all the ages. Kindly pass on the outside, ladies! Gentlemen! On the outside! The outside!"

It used to be, "Pass on the inside!" but now it's tough work to keep th' mob shiffin' at all. Fact is, we're the broad-gage dream-pull pushers of the Pike inside of a week, the only original charter-members of the Get There Club. All the others has to take our dust; Shadow the Chin-brower, Mame, Shadow the Medium, Moscow the Snake King, an' all—specially Moscow. I used to know Moscow, y'understand, when his name was MacShane, an' you could put all the love lost between us in your eye without a wail none the worse; so it didn't worry me much about his business givin' to the blinks. Oh, I tell you, the mermaid bunch was just swamped in a tidal-wave of rejoicin'. We sure was kotin' some! But it's just this very pace of ours that cut the final crimp in our gears—na you'll see all in its good an' proper time. Don't rush the lecture.

For, one day along the beginning of our third week since the boss grew a spike-tail coat an' the title of professor, I notices this same Moscow MacShane in among the bunch of E. Z. Marx. There's a difference between them an' him, though, and it don't look extra salubrious, neither. They're all standin' with open traps, scortin' the prof's science, while he's berkin' by the far-end of the tank, dead to the spiel, but all there with the optics. And as he pipes me the smiles contented, in a way that gives me a sudden attack of blighted hope, he's dropped from the top story in one of them sudden elevators! I growls that depey the prof. has to jab me with his pointer to make me paddle an' retrieve. And all th' time I'm performin', Moscow is givin' me sensations like when you sprinkle sugar on cysters. My blood's runnin' cold enough to freeze th' tank.

Well, we does our little bit, th' prof. and me, and then it comes time to clear the tent.

"On the outside! The outside!"—orates the prof., herdin' out the cattle. They all losties out—all but Moscow. He crouches down around the far corner of the tank an' stays.

When the tent is full of emptiness, up he bobs, leaps over the edge of th' tank, and "Slim," says he, "Slim, it's a real hunc IT, this mimical con of yours, marked up as the greatest ever, and calculated to pull down more coin than anybody can have an' be decent. But," he waggles his head at me, "but now let me tell you honest, it ain't quite artistic enough, an' that's th' livin'. For example—"

"Qwant!" I growls at him. "Clear out! No man what handles fangless reptiles has any call—"

"Dear me, such language!" he protests, mild as rabbit's milk. "I'm dis-combobluted, honest I am, to hear such from a lady mermaid! An', moreover, just think how imprudent it would be of you to holler—now wouldn't it? Sort of shake public confidence, an' all that, eh? Down, Lucy, down, there's a good, nice lady mermaid!"

He reaches out an' hits me a crack over the sea-wood on my brow with his long cane.

"Down, Lucy, down!" he repeats; and his tone for pure A-One insultin'ness was his th' top-ditcher of all time.

"I ain't through with you yet," says he, resum'in' his mild manners. "Com-pose yourself; there's another bunch of E. Z.'s due in three minutes. See you to-morrow," Mermald huntin'—nothin' like it; greatest ever!"

Next he's changed his mind about waitin' till to-morrow—maybe thought I'd put th' prof. wise, an' have him excluded, which I sure would have done—for, anyhow, back he comes in side of an hour, an' with him a couple of hunkies with such low brows that their hair tangles their eyelashes. The three of 'em fronts up to our tank, along of a big an' apellbound crowd; an' none o' the audience seems more plumb int'rested than them three: Moscow's sleeve looks bulgy.

The prof. he seems uneasy and on his guard. I notices the stream of water ain't comin' in, and judges Deaf is bein' held as a reserve for imminent action in case o' need. My nerves is all to the dippy, so I can't hardly do my stunts at all, and the prof. has to more than prod. Every time I flaps or dives, "Geef!" thinks I, "this here is just prolongin' the agony. I'm sure workin' a shell-game on myself," thinks I, an' the sweat, begins to ooze. An' every time I comes up, I'm still stands Moscow MacShane and his L. B.'s, just smilin'—smilin'.

That bulgy sleeve teezes me.

"Make her dive again, professor!" she speaks up one of the L. B.'s, innocent like, tossin' a penny in. "See if she can find it on th' bottom. She can see beat in a dim light, can't she?"

"—Iridescent colors an' beautiful contours of this extraordinary large specimen," hastens the prof., tryin' to bring his lecture to a speedy finish. "An' captured alive after a desprits struggle by Colonel Lyander Webb, K.C.B., on the 27th of last—"

"Say, prof., butts in the other L. B., "how long can she stay down?"

"She requires a dim light, like all the specie," forces the prof., neck an' neck with that ominous curiosity of th' Moscow gang. "Lives in dark ocean caves an' fastnesses, which is their native abode among th' coral reefs! And now we will pass—"

"Under water they live?" inquires the first L. B. again. "In caves, you say? Far down among them beaut'ul coral reefs?"

"Why—er—yes," answers th' prof., his voice almost breakin' with suppressed torture. Th' crowd begins to shove an' whisper. "But you—y'understand, it's salt water—of course it is, out there on th' coasts of Van Diemen's Land in th' China Sea. Everybody knows that. Salt water—"

"No such thing!" retorts the L. B., pullin' out a book from his pocket. "I got a volume here, wrote by Colonel Webb himself, where he says—lummie find th' place, page 156—he says—"

"Never you mind what Colonel Webb says!" flares out the prof., an' hourly for the past eleven years; don't I know their habits? We will now pass on the outside. The outside—"

"Hold on! Hold on!" says the L. B., pollio an' 'er. Not a soul starts for the outside. Contrarywise, they crowds up closer than ever, till it's a regulation sardine-pack. Some laughs, an' I hears confused scraps of talk. "If this here Mermald Lucy's caught alive after a desprits struggle, inest 27th o' March, first an' only one in captivity, how comes it that—"

"Don't poster him!" speaks up Moscow, soothin' like. "That's a matter of mere detail. What interests this here intelligent audience now is just this—how long can a genuine mermaid stay under water? Now prof, it's up to you!"

"That's right—right!" I hears th' crowd repeat. "How long? Make her try it. Money's worth! Hold 'er under—"

"Say, an' I sweatin' blood, or ain't I?"

"Vo will how pass—" begins the prof. again, all of a tremble an' rubbin' his chin with a shaky hand; but Moscow interrupts once more:

"We don't press the point. It's immaterial—an' besides, Lucy ain't well to-day. She's allin'—I know it by her looks—allin' and nervous. But somethin' we would like to know is, what she feeds on? There, professor, her diet; what is it?"

"Diet?" answers th' prof., his spirits risin' like an oil-gusher. "Diet? Fish, mostly—fish and—"

"Zele!" volunteers Moscow. "If so, I have here—"

"Eels, yes. Eels and—"

"Anythin' marine, you understand. Certainly. Marine food, that's it, such as grows natural on them there coasts of Van—"

"Hang th' diet!" speaks up L. B. Number 1. "I wants to see her stay under water!"

"Same here!—An' here!" persists the crowd, which now is gettin' unruly an' hilarious. All this time, y'understand, I'm in a despair so black it makes soot snow-white by comparison. "Make 'er stay down! Down!" shouts some in that jostlin', pushin' mob. "Feed 'er!" vociferates others.

The poor old prof.—say, I had to pity him, spite o' my own bloody sweat. He grips his resolution, leans over an' pats me lovin' on the nozzle. "Dive, Lucy!" he commands in a tremblin' voice. "Dive, an' stay down—a spell."

"Here's my speedy end," thinks I, "but I'll croak game. An' Lord help th' fish they flings to me!" I gnashes my teeth preparatory to doin' murder vicariously on Moscow MacShane in the person of said fish. It's all dark an' slippery down there on th' bottom; can't more than see a glimmer. From above I hear a rumble o' voices.

Then all of a sudden I sees somethin' swimmin' round—kind of a flashin', big an' brown. My lungs feel like they was just plumb goin' to bust every second, but I makes a grab at th' fish—misses, makes an' other, lands on it with my left, grasps with my right, closes in and grips till my knuckles crack. I feels the fish-critter give; there's a sudden lash an' tangle—the water boils.

And then—then—free! Whillikens! Oo! Oo! Oooooo!—Somethin' explodes. Somethin' hits me. What is it? Where am I? Sparks an' fire envelope me. Can't let go—an' I'm all tied up in bow-knots myself. Jumpin'! Jewshaps! Bout a million volts of red-hot current racks my frame. Whoof!—Up I surges, blind, deaf, chokin'.

Plumb in the eye MacShane lands me one. Down I goes backward—splash!—head over tail, down I soaks under water again, gulps a gallon an' comes up just explodin' with a whoof! whoof! that blows th' drink clean over that hilarious mob of cutthroats. But this time the prof. has unlimbered. Deaf comes a shovin' and the outside-man, too—there's reinforcements. I makes my get-out o' the diabolish tank that time—falls on my map, outside, and lays apranglin', all tied up in my tail 'mongst the feet of that stampedin', fightin', roarin' multitude.

Mac, he drives a kick at me just as Deaf hands him a right hook on the ear. He drops. I'm top of him in a wink, and the L. B.'s, the prof., the outside-man an' Deaf is top of us both. An' after that it's just pure cannibalism, with th' mob weepin' itself sick for joy, an' screechin' "Perlicee!"

Perlicee? Sure they come—after a while. But there's no tent left, nothin' but ribbons.

Fact is, all th' good them perlicee done was shoot that there mermaid fool o' mine—that eel—that there million-volt electric eel.

Say, you tumble?

FRECKLES

By Gene Stratton-
Porter

COPYRIGHT, 1904, BY DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & CO.

Then he sat down beside Freckles. All the indescribable beauty of the place was strong about him, but he was only the bruised face of the suffering boy, who had hedged for the information he wanted like a diplomat, argued like a judge, fought like a shark and triumphed like a devil.

As the pain lessened and breath caught up with Freckles' pounding heart he watched the boss from the tail of his eye. How had McLean got there, and how long had he been there? Freckles did not dare ask. At last he arose and, going to the case, took out his revolver and the wire mending apparatus and locked the door. Then he turned to McLean.

"Have you any orders, sir?" he asked.

"Yes," said McLean. "I have, and you are to follow them to the letter. Turn over that apparatus to me and go straight home. Soak yourself in the hottest bath your skin will bear and go to bed at once. Now, hurry."

"Mr. McLean," said Freckles, "it's sorry I am to be telling you, but the afternoon's walking of the line ain't done. You see, I was just for getting to the foot to start, and I was on good time when up came a gentleman, and we got into a little heated argument. It's either settled or it's just begun, but between us I'm that into I haven't started for the afternoon yet. I must be going at once, for there's a tree I must find before the day's over."

"You plucky little idiot," growled McLean, "you can't walk the line! I doubt if you can get to Duncan's. Don't you know when you are done up? You go to bed. I'll finish your work."

"Niver!" protested Freckles. "I was just a little done up for the present, an' I'm all right now. My legs bein' away too good. The day's hot and the walk a good seven miles, sir, Niver!"

As he reached for the outfit he pitched forward and his eyes closed. McLean stared him on the moss and applied restoratives. When Freckles returned to consciousness McLean ran to the cabin to tell Mrs. Duncan to get a hot bath ready and to bring Nellie. That worthy woman promptly filled the wash boiler and set a roaring fire under it. She pushed the horse trough off its base and rolled it up to the kitchen.

By the time McLean came again, leading Nellie and holding Freckles on her back, Mrs. Duncan was ready for business. She and the boss laid Freckles in a trough and poured on hot water until he squealed. They soaped, rubbed and scoured him. Then they let the hot water off and closed his pores with cold. Lastly they stretched him on the floor and chafed, rubbed and kneaded him until he cried out for mercy. As they rolled him into bed his eyes dropped shut, but a little later they flared open.

"Mr. McLean," he cried, "the trool Oh, do be looking after the tree!" McLean bent over him. "Which tree, Freckles?"

"I don't know exact, sir, but it's on the east line, and the wire is fastened to it. He bragged that you nailed it yourself, sir. You'll know it by the bark having been laid open to the grain somewhere low down, and it was $500 he offered me—to be selling you out—sir!"

Freckles' head rolled over and his eyes dropped shut. McLean's hand traveled back to the night almost a year before when he had engaged Freckles, a stranger.

McLean bent, covering the hurt arm with one hand and laying the other with a carcase on the boy's forehead. Freckles stirred at his touch and his eyes flared open. "Which tree, Freckles?"

"I don't know exact, sir, but it's on the east line, and the wire is fastened to it. He bragged that you nailed it yourself, sir. You'll know it by the bark having been laid open to the grain somewhere low down, and it was $500 he offered me—to be selling you out—sir!"

Then he went out and told Mrs. Duncan to keep Freckles warm, and Freckles and send Duncan to him at the swamp the minute he came home. Following the trail down to the line and back to the scene of the fight, the boss entered Freckles' study softly, as if his spirit sleeping there might be roused, and gazed about with astonished eyes.

How had the boy conceived it? What a picture he had wrought in living colors! He had the heart of a painter; he had the soul of a poet. The boss stepped carefully over the velvet carpet and touched the walls of crisp verdure with gentle fingers. He stood long beside the flower bed and gazed at the banked wall of bright flowers as if he could never leave off.

CHAPTER VII.

AN ANGEL MATERIALIZES.

WHERE had Freckles ever found and how had he transported such ferns? As McLean turned from them he stopped suddenly. He had reached the door of the cathedral. That which Freckles had attempted would have been patent to any one. What had been the heart of the shy, silent boy when he had found that long, dim stretch of forest, decorated its entrance, cleared and smoothed its aisle and carpeted its altar? What varied work of God was in these mighty living pillars and the arched dome of green? How like stained cathedral windows were the long openings between the trees, filled with effluvia of blue, rays of gold and the shifting emerald of leaves! Where could be found mosaics to match this aisle paved with living color and glowing lights? Was Freckles a devout Christian and did he worship here? Or was he an untaught heathen and down the vision of entrancing loveliness did he come piping and drowsing, nymphs and faeries dance for him?

Who can fathom the heart of a boy? McLean had been thinking of Freckles as a creature of unswerving honesty, courage and faithfulness. Here was evidence of a heart melting for beauty, art, companionship, worship. It was well large all over the floor, walls and furnishings of that little lumber-lot clearing.

When Duncan came McLean told him the story of the fight, and they laughed until they cried. Then they started around the line in search of the tree.

Said Duncan, "Now the boy is in for some trouble!"

"I hope not," answered McLean. "You never in all your life saw a cur whipped so completely. He won't come back for the repetition of the chore. We can surely find the tree. If we can't Freckles can. I will bring enough of the gang to take it out at once. That will insure peace for a time at least, and I am hoping that in a month more the whole gang can be moved here. It will soon be fall, and then, if he will go, I intend to send Freckles to my mother to be educated. With his quickness of mind and body and a few years' good help he can do anything. Why, Duncan, I'd give a hundred dollar bill if you could have been here and seen for yourself."

Locating the tree was an easy task because it was an well identified. When the rumble of the lumber wagon passing the cabin on the way to the swamp awakened Freckles next morning he sprang up and was soon following them. The tree was a giant maple and so precious that they almost dug it out by the roots.

McLean had told Freckles to ride on a section of the maple with him, but now the boy begged to go into the swamp with Duncan.

"I don't see why you want to go," said McLean. "I have no business to let you out today at all."

"It's me chickens, sir," answered Freckles.

Freckles hurried into the swamp. He was some little distance behind, but he could still see the men. Before he overtook them they had turned from the west road and had entered the swamp toward the east. The underbrush was almost impenetrable. As they plunged into it a great black bird swept over their heads.

Freckles danced wildly. "It's me chickens! Oh, it's me chickens!" he shouted. "Oh, Duncan, come quick! You've found the nest of me precious chickens!"

Duncan hurried down to the mouth of a monstrous log, but Freckles was before him. He crashed through poison vines and underbrush regardless of any danger and climbed on the stump. When Duncan got there he was shouting like a wild thing.

"It's hatched!" he yelled. "Oh, me chickens! Me chickens! Me chickens!"

McLean had watched out the little chicken, and there's another egg. I can see it plain, and, oh, the funny little white baby! Duncan, can you see the little white chicken?"

Duncan could easily see it, and so could every one else. Freckles dearly carried the hissing, blinding little thing out to the light in a leaf lined hat. The man found it sufficiently wonderful to satisfy even Freckles, who had forgotten he was ever sore or stiff, and cuddled over it with every blaspheming term of endearment he knew.

Duncan gathered up his tools. "Dent's off, boys!" he said cheerfully. "The log manna be touched until Freckles' chickens have finished with it. We might as well gang. Better put it back, Freckles. It's just out, and it may chill. Ye will probably have two the morn'."

Freckles deposited the baby beside the egg. When he came back he said:

"DENT'S OFF, BOYS!" HE SAID CHEERFULLY.

"I made a big mistake not to be bringing the egg out with the baby, but I was fearing to touch it. It's shaped like a hen's egg, and it's big as a turkey's, and the beautiful blue—just splattered with big brown blotches, like me book said, precisely. And you never saw such a sight as it made on the yellow of the rotten wood beside that funny leathery faced little white baby."

"Tell you what, Freckles," said one of the teamsters. "Have you ever heard of this bird woman that goes all over the country with a camera and makes pictures? She made some on my brother Jim's place last summer, and Jim's so wild about them he quits plowing and goes after her about every nest he finds. He helps her all he can to get them, and then she gives him a picture. Jim's so proud of the white he has he keeps them in the Bible. He shows them to everybody that comes and brags about how he helped to take them. If you're smart you'll send for her and she'll come and make a picture just like this. If you help her she will give you one. It would be uncommon pretty to keep after your birds are gone. I don't want what they are. I never see their like before. They must be something rare. Any you fellows ever see a bird like that when you're in?"

No one ever had.

"Well," said the teamster, "failing to get this log lets me off till noon, and I'm going to town. If I was making a living taking bird pictures I should be sure to take one like that."

"Then you be sure to tell her to come," said Freckles.

The next morning Freckles hurried about the trail, and on his way down the east side he slipped in to see the chickens. The mother bird was on the nest. He was afraid the other egg might just be hatching, so he did not venture to disturb her. He made the round and reached his study early. He had his lunch along and did not need to start on the second trip until the middle of the afternoon. He would have long hours to work on his flower bed, improve his study and learn about his chickens.

The heat became more insistent. Noon came, and Freckles ate his dinner and settled forth for two or three hours with a book.

Perhaps there was a breath of sound, Freckles could never afterward remember, but for some reason he lifted his head just as the bushes parted and the face of an angel looked through. Salts, nymphs and faeries had floated down his cathedral aisle for him many times, with forms and voices of exquisite beauty.

Parting the air roses by the entrance was heads of which Freckles had never dreamed. Was it Freckles or would it vanish the other dream had done? He took a step nearer, gazing intently. This was real flesh and blood. And it was in every way like the Lincolns, for no bird of his kind ever glowed with more beauty than this dainty young thing looked on the bit of moss on which she stood. A supple body, her hair not straighter nor bolder than her slender form. Her soft, waving hair hung about her face with the heart, and curled over her shoulders. It was all of one piece with the gold of the sun which filtered through the branches. Her eyes were just the deepest blue of the iris, her lips the reddest of the foxfire, and her cheeks exactly of the same satin as the wild rose petals encircling them. She was smiling on Freckles' imperfect confidence, and she cried, "Oh, I'm so delighted that I've found you!"

Their Names Against Them.

We are blessed to believe that Ananias left his descendants, but there were people so like him as to bear the name of Ananias, or again Ananias. Their descendants have to bear the brand of ancestral duplicity. So, Mr. Ananias may perhaps trace his descent back to the sweet Greek singer, or of women and poets. Not unlike, or his greatest poetic brother, Plutarch, also his sons.

DAY LOST ON PACIFIC;
CALENDAR TRICKS

Investigation Party Observe Sunday and Christmas Together.

Pastor Russell's Text Was the Song of the Angels at Jesus' Birth, "Glory to God in the Highest, and on Earth Peace, Good Will Toward Men." Speaks at Tokio Next.

On the Pacific, December 25th.—When Pastor Russell and party with others westward bound discovered that a day must be dropped from the calendar, they decided to observe Sunday the 24th and Christmas the 25th day together. The text for the day was the song of the angels on the morning of Jesus' birth—"Glory to God in the Highest; on earth peace, good will toward men."—Luke II, 14.

What could be more appropriate to the occasion than the song of the angels? Surely that song must find a response in the hearts of all good people. Nearly nineteen centuries have sped since the babe in the manger uttered the message of peace went forth; but still God is not glorified, and peace and good will are not exemplified amongst men. What means this delay?

Instead of peace, we have war; instead of disarmament, fresh taxes are levied; armies are enlarged and fresh equipped; new guns of more deadly caliber take the place of previous types, and also more monster dreadnaughts are promised before another year—all for peace! Some of us, as Bible students, have learned within the last few years to place greater confidence than ever in our precious Bible. Wiping from it the smearing of ignorance and superstition accumulated during the Dark Ages, we find God's Book wonderfully resplendent! It reveals to us the whole situation. It assures us of Divine blessing upon all who have the spirit of peace-makers; but it also assures us that no peace, but great trouble lies immediately in our pathway. "A time of trouble such as was not since there was a nation." (Daniel xii, 1.)

It explains that this is the result of the great increase of knowledge amongst men, in whom the principles of selfishness rather than of love hold control. "The Bible predicts that shortly this will break forth like a consuming fire. "Every man's hand will be against his neighbor," in that reign of terror.

A Better Day to Follow

Thank God! the same Scriptures which tell us of the coming catastrophe point to the silver lining of the cloud. They declare to us that beyond the Sun of Righteousness will rise with healing, blessing, in "His beams, and that then, under the administration of Messiah's Kingdom, God's will shall be brought to pass on earth even as in heaven. Then God will be glorified in the highest, and on earth will be peace, good will, equity, justice and love amongst men.

"But how strange!" says one; "we had hoped that education would have made the world better, nobler, better. We had hoped to establish this peace and good will amongst men by the conversion of the world." Yes, we once all foolishly trusted in the arm of flesh. We are all to learn the lesson that only the Almighty Arm can deliver us from the snares of our own weakness and selfishness. Do we not see that the majority of our race are not made holy by education, but rather made "lovers of pleasure more than lovers of God?" Do we not see that the prisons and police officers are more numerous and more necessary in proportion to civilization?

World Must Wait Until Election Is Over

How long will it take us to learn the lesson that mankind cannot lift itself out of sin, selfishness, degradation and death any more than a man can lift himself by his own boot straps! The world must learn this lesson before it will be prepared to look to the Lord for the helpful change which He has promised to give, and be prepared to appreciate that help when received. God is teaching our race, yes, the angels also, great lessons which are to be useful to all eternity.

But the Redeemer must first gather from amongst men a select little company to be His companions on the spirit plane in glory, honor and immortality. These are styled the "Body of Christ," or otherwise "the Bride, the Lamb's Wife." The world cannot be dealt with until this election shall first be accomplished. Nearly nineteen centuries have been devoted to the gathering of this select few who are called "Heirs of God, joint-heirs with Jesus Christ their Lord!" to a heavenly inheritance. To our understanding the Bible teaches that very soon the last of these "elect" ones will have been tested and accepted. Then the First Resurrection will be completed, the great Messiah, Head and members, will be glorified, all-powerful but favorable to men.

Forthwith the Sun of Righteousness will begin to shine, and earth's dark clouds of sin and sorrow, pain and tears, sickness and death, will melt away, the glory of the Lord will be revealed, and all flesh shall see it together. (Isaiah xl, 5.) Then our text will have reached its fulfillment.

Weary Feet.

I wonder how many people who suffer tortures with their feet in hot weather, agonies of aching, burning, swelling and rawness, tenderness, knowing that a raw potato, peeled and cut in half and well rubbed over them every night and morning will cure the trouble? Or, failing that, a good daily soaking in strong cold tea? Or that the worst sore corn will yield to a treatment of salt-corned salt applied night and morning?

Profit in Study of Names.

A good deal of study may often bring a good deal of not only amusement, but positive instruction and education. Try it on your friends, or perhaps, better, your enemies. For then you can prove for yourself the old proverb (honestly invented on the spot). Tell me your name and I can tell you what your ancestors were.

How Long a Cigar Will Last.

DR. GODDARD WILL VISIT JANSVILLE ON TUESDAY, JANUARY 2, 1912. STOPS AT HOTEL MYERS. CONSULTATION FREE.

H. B. Jones, a prominent Milwaukee business man residing at 878 Maryland Ave., Milwaukee, suffered with chronic appendicitis. Mr. Jones endured terrible pain and was unable to get on his feet for many days each month. He took an expensive trip to French Lick Springs in Indiana in his search for relief from the terrible agony that made life a burden. Neither the so-called family doctors nor the famous Indiana watering place brought any relief. He despaired of ever again regaining his health.

Finally Mr. Jones heard of Dr. Goddard, the eminent Milwaukee specialist, who visits this city one day each month. He called on the physician. The doctor examined him and told the patient that he could cure him without an operation. The poor sufferer was indeed delighted for he had heard of Dr. Goddard's reputation for not taking any incurable cases.

A year has now passed and Mr. Jones is entirely cured of appendicitis—and without an operation. Naturally a man of Dr. Goddard's ability and experience at such a cure, such a specialist treats hundreds of cases of appendicitis, gall stones and rupture, while doctors of general practice treat one and sometimes none.
